SCREAMS ROUT INTRUDER

DOROTHY RODGERS

Frightened speechless for a few minutes early today when an intruder sought to chloroform her as she lay in bed, pretty Dorothy Rodgers, 22, regained her courage and her scream sent the burglar leaping through a second-story window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Frederick, 2813 Pioneer avenue, where she rooms.

Miss Rodgers, a stenographer, awoke to find a man bending over her and putting to her nostrils a scarf saturated with chloroform. Fear rendered her stunned for a moment, and she closed her eyes as the man's hands moved over her face and through her hair, apparently to determine if she was under the influence of the drug.

The intruder switched on a light momentarily. Miss Rodgers remained quiet, but, as he again approached the bed, she called, "What are you doing here?" and then shouted for help.

As the intruder leaped from the window, Mr. Frederick entered with a revolver, but the thug, along with an accomplice, who was heard to whistle outside, had fled.

The visitor left a partly filled bottle of chloroform on the dresser of Miss Rodgers and had not touched a purse containing $20 or her watch.

The young woman is under the care of a physician today as the result of her experience.

The Field Lindbergh Saw.
First We Junk, Then Build.
The King's Prayer Book.
A New 10,000-Mile Sea.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927.)

IN spite of fog, Lindbergh flew non-stop from the capital of the United States to the capital of Mexico.

The long-distance non-stop flight, increasing fuel load, is dangerous. Lindbergh should feel he has done his share in that direction. After his return from Paris, he said he would make any other flights to Europe via the Azores, the sensible route, taking fuel at the midway Islands, keeping his load light.

LANDING on Mexico's Valbuen military aviation field, Lindbergh found himself within two and a half miles of Mexico's greatest city, on a landing field six miles square. He would not find anything like that near New York, America's biggest city.

Twenty-five miles out, on Long Island, there is the little field, so small that Lindberg almost failed in his takeoff for Paris, barely missing trees, sheds and telegraph wires.

LINDBERGH told reporters he hoped his non-stop flight would stimulate aviation in Mexico and Central America. Let's hope it will also stimulate flying and flying field construction in his backward country. What this country lacks in national and government flying sense is to some extent counterbalanced by individual flying supremacy. Lindbergh, the young hero of his country, has flown 34,905 miles since he left San Diego bound for

None Claims Woman As Fortune Awaits

Who are the relatives of Isabel Coates Perry, 50, found dead in an attitude of prayer beside her bed in the apartment house at 1524 Arch street, Wednesday night? Her body today lies unclaimed at the Morgue.

A comfortable fortune awaits relatives, a glimpse into a safe deposit box of a downtown bank by coroner's officials revealed today. There they found a deed to the apartment house where she died and some personal papers, but no will. They learned the woman also was proprietor of another apartment at 1214 Federal street, and that she had a bank account, amount not determined.

The body was taken to the morgue when no one claimed it. As authorized by law, the coroner took charge of the woman's property until legal heirs could be found.

The woman, who, it is believed, was formerly married to a man named Craig, is thought to have a sister in Buffalo, N. Y., and a brother in Thorn, Butler county, or Sharon. The family originally came from St. Thomas or Port Stanley, Ontario, it was ascertained.

Ram Pay Car, Get $11,000

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Ramming their automobile into the pay car of the Union National Bank to distract the attention of the messengers, four bandits thrust their guns into the faces of their victims, took a satchel containing $11,000 in cash, dashed to a car in which two confederates were waiting, and made their escape in a quick-moving holdup today.

The pay car, driven by Charles Goeckler, Camden, and protected by Alexander Ferris, this city, a special officer, was near its destination, the office of Mitchell & Pierson, West Philadelphia leather manufacturers, when the holdup was staged.

FLOOD IS DUE

The second flood within 48 hours was sweeping down the Allegheny River toward Pittsburgh today, with a possible 26-foot stage at Point Bridge.

Rainfall, that averaged more than an inch all along the Allegheny Valley, checked the falling flood waters here after they had dropped to 22.6 feet at 8 o'clock this morning and a secondary rise set in almost immediately.

A snowfall of from four to six inches up the Allegheny valley was acting as a huge sponge to absorb surface water, the weather bureau reported this afternoon. This, combined with a rapid descent of the mercury, operated to lessen chances of the rivers here going much beyond the flood stage.

CREST TOMORROW

The crest of the new rise, Brotzman said, could be expected early tomorrow morning.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the stage at the Point was 24 feet, a rise of four-tenth over the lowest point of the recession. The rivers remained stationary for a short time then again began their upward trend, causing anxiety to residents in low lying districts and causing the

U. S. TO HELP

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Senate committee investigating the startling series of Mexican documents published in the Hearst newspapers, which set forth, among other things, that $1,215,000 was appropriated for distribution to United States senators, decided today that it would "have to go clear to the bottom" of the affair.

"We may have to call upon the government's secret service operatives in this matter," said Senator David A. Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the investigating committee, after an executive session.

Behind closed doors, the committee discussed the authenticity of the documents, the direct conflict between the testimony of Arturo Elias, the Mexican consul at New York, and Miguel Avila, the American-born Mexican, who unqualifiedly asserts the documents came from the secret archives of the Mexican government.

William Randolph Hearst -:- Testifies -:- Of Mexico's Anti-U. S. Plot

PUBLISHER AT CAPITAL

William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the Sun-Telegraph and 25 other newspapers, appeared before the senatorial committee probing the anti-United States plot which Mexico fostered in Nicaragua. Hearst papers disclosed machinations of the plot and brought about the investigation. He is pictured on the Senate Office building steps with E. H. Clark, manager of the Hearst estates.

MEXICAN OFFICIALS THERE

Arturo M. Elias, counselor general of Mexico, and Charles A. Greethe, secretary of the Mexican embassy at Washington, also are appearing before the committee. Elias was mentioned frequently during the Hearst expose as prominent in the execution of President Calles' anti-American activities.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

100 TRAFFIC BEACONS IS PLAN FOR TRIANGLE

BONDS MAY BE ISSUED TO PROVIDE SIGNALS

Erection of traffic beacons at 100 intersections in Pittsburgh's "Golden Triangle" probably will be obtained by means of a councilmanic bond issue shortly after the first of the year, Council today, after discussing this proposed bond issue, arranged a conference with the Better Traffic Committee to be held after the holidays when not only the downtown beacons but the entire system of regulation throughout the city will be discussed. Meanwhile the $50,000 appropriation for the purpose asked by the Mayor in his budget was approved.

The plan, proposed after an intensive study of the situation by the Better Traffic Committee, is expected to speed up both pedestrian and vehicle movements through the downtown section and may eventually reduce the number of traffic policemen now required.

The councilmanic trend in favor of the plan developed following yesterday's hearing at which Gen. A. J. Logan, chairman, and other members of the committee appeared to urge and appropriation of $112,000 for the purpose.

Edgar J. Kaufmann, appearing as a representative of the Fifth Avenue Improvement Association, suggested that if Council could not appropriate the entire amount, it should immediately authorize the erection of the beacons on Fifth avenue. Mr. Kaufmann, giving his unqualified approval to the establishment of the system in the entire section as proposed by the committee, stated that in suggesting Fifth avenue he did so in the event that Council could not appropriate the entire $100,000 needed and added that he felt it would be advisable to make a start on that street or any other highway approved by engineers who have studied the situation.

Members of the committee objected to the erection of such lights on Fifth avenue alone on the grounds that they would not only interfere with the plan for the entire system but would tend to "pile up" traffic on all cross streets.

C. M. MAYER, BURNED, DIES

Charles M. Mayer, Sr., 45, of Bridgeville, former aviation devotee, and son of C. P. Mayer, head of the Mayer Aircraft Corporation, died today in the Canonsburg General Hospital of burns suffered in a gas explosion in his temporary home near Hendersonville, Washington county last Monday.

Mayer had lighted a cigar while he and others were examining airplane models, igniting gas which had accumulated from a leak. He was burned on the head and body. His son, Charles M. Mayer, Jr., and two others suffered less serious burns.

Mayer for the last few years had been conducting a swimming pool and barbecue stand at Rakuen Lake, near Hendersonville. He was treasurer of the C. P. Mayer Brick Company.

Mr. Mayer leaves his wife, his son and a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Hammill, of Carnegie. He was a member of St. Agatha's Catholic Church, Bridgeville.

Weather Bureau to be besieged with queries on the latest flood prospects.

BLIZZARD HITS

Following last night's continuous rain, blizzard-like weather came sweeping in from the West, and this will check a more serious flood here, the weather forecaster said. Snow flurries accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature struck the city shortly after 9 o'clock. The mercury will continue to drop, and by tomorrow morning may go as low as 15 degrees.

The rain here late yesterday and last night totaled .95 inch, but this was exceeded at several points in the upper Allegheny valley and nearby towns along the Monongahela. Rain in the upper Monongahela valley was light, however, and that stream continues its steady fall, but this did not offset the torrent out of the Allegheny.

At Natrona the rainfall was 1.04 inches, at Franklin .95 inch and at Warren .48 inch. Little rain was reported from the upper Monongahela, Morgantown, W. Va., having only .01 inch and Lock No. 7 the same. At Charleroi the fall was .55 inch, indicating that Pittsburgh was the center of the heaviest downpour.

TODAY

Paris last May, a distance about equal to once and a half around the world.

CONGRESS is asked to appropriate $725,000,000 for new warships. And a little while ago, to please our British and Japanese friends, who could not afford to keep up with us, we junked hundreds of millions worth of new fighting ships, some not completed. That, you will admit, represents a high mark in national idiocy. Let's hope none of our European brothers will persuade our boy statesmen to junk these new ships, before completion.

THE British House of Lords has approved the new and changed readings in the Church of England prayer book, but the book has been disproved by the House of Commons. King George is interested, because his oath requires him to stick to that book.

Some Low Church Britishers complain that the new book is not as strictly "Protestant" as the last. The opinion of the only authority that really counts can unfortunately not be obtained.

THE Egyptian government considers a suggestion to flood 10,000 square miles of the Sahara Desert, lying below the level of the Mediterranean.

A canal would let Mediterranean waters to the desert sea as the Atlantic rushing through the Straits of Gibraltar, created the Mediterranean, in ages past.

THE artificial desert sea, navigable for big ships, and promoting rainfall, near the Siwa oasis, would enable that and neighboring territory to support 1,000,000 inhabitants as against 2,000 now. Now such undertakings will be common, when men really manage the globe as one big farm.

THE important question is: WHAT KIND OF HUMAN BEINGS WILL BE ADDED TO EARTH'S POPULATION?

No use increasing the number of these that will have to die off, or be killed off because of inferiority.

Great Britain has added 100,000,000 to the population of India, by fighting plagues and famine, and science, plus an end to girl baby killing, may change China's 400,000,000 population to 1,000,000,000 in spite of China's wars. Those increases might create problems more serious than any desert or swamp.

SOME, ill-informed, oppose vaccination, which prevents smallpox. Facts will not influence them. Nevertheless here are facts supplied by "Hygeia."

In 1754, in France, every tenth death was due to smallpox, and one-quarter of all human beings were killed, crippled or disfigured for life by smallpox. Jenner introduced vaccination in 1796 and the disease ceased to be a serious danger.

In 1924 there were 1,610 cases of smallpox in Detroit, with 163 deaths. In all these cases not one had been vaccinated within five years. Of those that died, 142 had never been vaccinated, and the others had been vaccinated 10 years or more, before their infection. Anyone indifferent to such facts could be convinced only by smallpox, following nonvaccination.

JUSTICE AGENT TO AID

and a number of other puzzling features in the expose.

To Check Testimony

The committee, Reed said, would "check up on testimony of Elias."

John F. Maragon, a former Department of Justice agent, who conducted an investigation into Elias' activities four years ago, has been subpenaed to appear at tomorrow's session. Elias swore yesterday that he had never seen Avila until he came into the committee room. Avila swore he had known Elias for 14 years, and once carried documents from him to the late Gen. Gomez, who was executed by the Calles government for leading a Catholic uprising. Calles and Elias are half brothers.

The recess today afforded the committee the first real opportunity individual members have had to examine the documents in detail, and considerable time was spent going over them.

Records of the telegraph companies, which have been subpenaed for examination as to the messages that passed between the Calles government and Arturo Elias, Mexican consul in New York, were not available at today's session, and as the initial list of witnesses has been exhausted, the committee decided to recess after holding an executive session to discuss further procedure.

Call Four Witnesses

Four witnesses appeared before the committee this morning—Victor Watson, editor of the New York Daily Mirror; George W. Hinman, Jr., former correspondent for the Hearst newspapers in Mexico City; John Page, author of the articles recently printed; and Miguel Avila, the American-born Mexican, who procured the documents on which the articles were based from official files in Mexico City and New York.

Watson told the committee he was convinced of the genuineness of the documents.

Page and Avila were both closely cross-examined by the Senators on the committees and explained many details in connection with the documents and the manner in which they were obtained.

Hinman on Stand

When the inquiry was resumed at 11:15 o'clock today, George Wheeler Hinman, Jr., foreign correspondent for the Hearst newspapers in Mexico City, was called to the stand.

Hinman testified he had heard rumors in Mexico City of the existence of documents concerning payment to "certain Americans." He had heard, he said, that the records of the Mexican Treasury would show it. However, Hinman said he never followed up the rumors, and he never saw the documents printed in the Hearst newspapers until after he was transferred from Mexico City to New York.

Senator Reed asked Hinman whether he had any personal knowledge of the genuineness of the documents. Upon his reply that he had not, Hinman was excused.

The committee next called Victor Watson, editor of the New York Mirror, but Watson did not answer his name and a short recess was taken to await his appearance.

Watson Testifies

Watson appeared shortly. He testified he had first heard of the Mexican documents early in July from E. D. Coblentz, editor of the New York American. Later he said he inspected the papers at Mr. Hearst's ranch in California.

"What did you think of them," asked Reed.

"At first blush I was impressed with their genuineness," replied Watson. While he himself entertained no doubts as to their authenticity, Watson said, he told Page that there should be some clinching evidence as to their genuineness.

"I thought the shortest cut would be to plant somebody in the Mexican consulate's office," said the editor. "I also thought the Nicaraguan legation might help us in confirming the facts relating to Nicaragua, and the British embassy in that part of the evidence relating to the British coal strike. I suggested to Page, too, that he go to the State Department."

All this time, Watson said, he had been one of the managing editors of the New York American. In October, he said, he took over the editorship of the Mirror and "stepped out of the picture," leaving further details concerning the Mexican documents to Coblentz.

Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, asked the editor what convinced him that the documents were genuine.

"I asked Page," said Watson, "if he had some of Calles' signatures. He did and I compared them with those on the document. I was convinced they were the same."

"Don't you think a clever forger could reproduce Calles' signature in a way that could fool you?" asked Robinson.

"It has been done," replied Watson.

Reed asked Watson whether, in suggesting that Avila be planted in Elias' office, he "wasn't asking Avila to corroborate himself," inasmuch as Avila had procured the Mexican documents.

"What's the difference," replied the editor, "the documents would speak for themselves."

Recall Avila

Avila was recalled to the stand when Watson concluded.

Avila had testified he knew Elias in New Orleans 13 years ago. Senator Reed questioned him minutely about the location of the Mexican consulate in New Orleans, the arrangement of rooms and other small details. Avila replied that to the best of his recollection the consulate office was in the Hibernian building, and that he believed it was in front of the elevator.

Robinson asked: "Would it surprise you to know that you had to turn to the right?"

Avila replied that it was long ago in 1914, and that he couldn't remember very clearly. Fernandez Portello, former secretary to Gen. Gomez, could testify that he, Avila, delivered letters to Elias at New Orleans, he said. Portello is now in Los Angeles.

There are numerous affidavits to support the existence of the secret treaty between Mexico and Japan, Avila said. This treaty was incorporated in the documents published by the Hearst papers.

Almicar Zentella, a former member of the Mexican Congress, Avila said, has made one such affidavit and was in the Mexican Congress when the treaty was discussed. Zentella is now in San Antonio. This and other affidavits are now in possession of Page, Avila said.

Page, writer of the articles, was then recalled. Senator Reed asked him about the affidavits, and Page said they had been turned over to the committee. He picked them out of the huge bundle of documents.

Identifies Documents

Page identified the affidavit signed by Zentella, the former Mexican congressman. He told of another affidavit, signed by a stenographer employed in the Mexican Chamber of Deputies. In it the stenographer swore he saw the treaty.

"We have two other affidavits bearing Bolshevistic activities in Mexico but they don't bear directly on the authenticity of the documents," said Page. "The affidavits of the ex-member of Congress and the stenograhper bear on the authenticity of the document, showing a treaty between Mexico and Japan."

Page submitted evidence tending to show the grammatical errors in some of the Mexican documents were of common usage there. He also explained that the so-called "misplaced punctuation" in few of the documents were not wrong, because the "accents" were marked on the keys of Mexican typewriters.

"The accents used in these documents are all correct," said Page, "but there are some accents left out that should have been used."

The committee then went into executive session.

DOUBLES HER TROUBLES

OLGA PETROVA

When William Henry Roberts, English playwright, got a verdict against Olga Petrova for $7,500 for plagiarism, Olga supposed that was that. Roberts said La Petrova's "The White Peacock" was practically a carbon-copy of his "La Rubia." Now he's suing her again, this time for damages for the use of his idea in her play after he filed the first suit. The $7,500 covered damages only up to that time.

Plays Santa Role to Save Miners' Goods

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 16.—Fred J. Broad, local real estate dealer, played Kris Kringle to families of 23 striking miners today when he purchased their furniture auctioned off to reimburse the Union Colleries Company at Renton, and gave it back to them.

This was the second time that Broad went to the aid of the miners when their household equipment was disposed of to recompense the company for back rent.

All Broad asked of the miners was a promise that when the strike is ended and they again have work they will repay him.

Much of the furniture was moved to newly constructed barracks built by the United Mine Workers for the strikers and their families.

NEW COAL PARLEY LIKELY

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Although the coal conference called by Secretary of Labor Davis to evolve a peace plan for bituminous fields in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia failed to reach an agreement, further attempts may be made to settle the controversy, Davis indicated today.

The conference was in session three days but it broke up because of the absence of the major operators in the territory involved.

"If ever an industry needed a 'czar,' coal is that industry," Davis declared. "This conference just closed developed a suggestion that leaders in coal submit the industry to control by an umpire or overlord. If they did so, they could bring order and stabilization at a stroke.

"Such a man would, in himself, take over the functions of the suggested rationing and arbitration commissions. The man selected would have to be one of ability, courage, decision and heart, a man of the type of Charles Evans Hughes."

URGES CAMPAIGN TO KILL AUTO SALES TAX

"Pittsburgh motorists are happy to learn that the members of the House have eliminated from the Federal revenue bill the sales tax on automobiles, as are members of the motoring fraternity all over the United States," according to C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

"We appeal to every motorist in this district to get in touch with Senator David A. Reed by letter, wire or phone and immediately appeal to him to vote in the Senate to eliminate the tax. Senator Reed may agree with his good friend Secretary Mellon, as to the advisability of retaining the tax, but, first and last, he is a servant of the people whom he represents and has always shown the greatest desire to look out for their best interests."

DEATH ENDS SLEEP

Clara Drummond, the "sleeping beauty," whose mysterious coma baffled the medical world, is dead at Fresno, Cal., where she had been under treatment of Dr. William J. Peacock, right.

Vogel at TiaJuana, Belief

George J. Vogel, missing North Side chain store manager, may be at the Tia Juana race track, Lower California, but not with Edward Smith, a North Side bookmaker, O. H. Smith, a brother of Edward, stated this morning. He said he knew positively that his brother was not with Vogel in the California city.

Mr. Smith admitted that his brother has been working out of town for three weeks, but not in Tia Juana. He said that he has been receiving letters from Edward. Vogel disappeared November 13. The next day his abandoned auto was found at the foot of Dasher street, North Side, and letters said to have been written by him were received by the police and his brother.

City Detective M. J. Feeney, assigned to the case, said that he believes that the mystery of Vogel's disappearance may be cleared up by the circulars bearing a description of the missing man that have been sent out by William Vogel to all parts of the United States.

Al Capone Returns, Nabbed

JOLIET, Ill., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, was arrested today as he alighted from a Santa Fe Railroad train at the Union Station here.

Capone had gone to Los Angeles with two friendse for a rest, as he explained to police in that city, but found he was an unwelcome guest. Newspaper stories of his arrival in California led the hotel in which he was occupying a luxurious suite to demand his departure. Two Los Angeles detectives later accompanied Capone and his party to a train and saw them start for Chicago.

Four gangsters, loitering at the Union Station, were arrested shortly before the train from the West pulled in. Revolvers were taken from them and they were placed in cells to await the arrival of their chief.

The charge placed against Capone was that of carrying concealed weapons. As he alighted from the train, alone, he made a dash for a taxicab, but police caught him. A revolver was found in his overcoat pocket, and he was carrying two magazines of cartridges.

Meter Inspectors as Dry Agents? Well--

A. W. Robertson, president of the Equitable Gas Company and associated interests, would not enter objection if the company's meter readers were to report the presence of stills in homes whose meters they inspect.

Mr. Robertson made known his attitude today after news had come out of Pawtucket, R. I., that the government attorney there had arranged with the local gas and electric company to report all stills which its meter readers might stumble upon.

"However," Mr. Robertson qualified, "I would not want it to be supposed that the mere presence of the still was evidence of a law violation. I would not want our employes to blast the character of the persons involved. The still might lie idle in the cellar; it might have been left behind by the previous tenant. In this country, you known, one is innocent until proved guilty."

There is not, however, much likelihood that the Pawtucket pact will be emulated in the territory covered by the Philadelphia Company, of which the Equitable is a part. John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for this district, cast his personal vote against the plan and characterized it as "small business" for a busy force of prohibition agents and a crowded Federal Court calendar. Mr. Pennington felt further that such tactics would antagonize and arouse the people to no good end.

BOY CROSSING TRACKS INJURED BY TORPEDO

William Shrock, 10, of 2408 Lebanon street, was injured yesterday when a piece of steel thrown from a railroad torpedo struck him in the right side as he was crossing the Pennsylvania Railroad at South Twenty-fourth street. He was taken to the South Side Hospital by friends who witnessed the accident. Two years ago the boy was blinded in the right eye when struck by a piece of steel thrown from a bar he was hammering.

LINDBERGH TO MAKE TOUR OF CENTRAL AMERICA

PLANS TO SPEND CHRISTMAS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will spend Christmas in Mexico City and plans then to make a flight from the Mexican capital to the Central American countries of Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador and Panama.

He expects his mother, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, Detroit chemistry teacher, to come to Mexico City as the guest of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow to spend Christmas with him.

Col. Lindbergh, himself telling of his plans in an interview with newspaper correspondents, said that the order in which he will visit the four Central American countries had not been decided.

He will fly from Central America to Havana and then from Havana directly home to St. Louis, Mo.

BULL FIGHT ON PROGRAM

In the course of the interview, Col. Lindbergh indicated that he might go to a bull fight on Sunday. When asked about protests from the United States against his going to a bull fight, he replied:

"I think Mexico is perfectly capable of choosing its own national sport."

Protests from organizations in all parts of the United States against his possible attendance at a bull fight continue to reach the embassy. About 60 all told have been received, including one from Minnie Maddern Fiske, the actress.

Col. Lindbergh, who visited the American school here today, where he was received with vociferous applause, told the correspondents that he believed a regular airline service would be established between the United States and Mexico and Central American countries before very long. This would come, he thought, before a regular transatlantic air service could be established.

The American airman said that he did not believe transatlantic air service was feasible as yet and added that he considered his flight to Paris more difficult than the one to Mexico City.

The American flier estimated that he flew from 2,500 to 2,400 miles on his Washington-Mexico City flight, but said that he had not calculated the distance exactly.

Asked about a theory advanced in the Mexican aviation department that his flight constituted a record solo non-stop overland trip, he replied:

"This was far from the record. We do not make a distinction between land and water flights. Commander Byrd holds the record."

Lindbergh also said that he had not yet estimated the distance of his projected Central American-Havana flight.

He then told the correspondents that he was much impressed with Mexico and that he likes it better and better with every passing hour.

INDIANA TOWNSHIP VOTE FRAUD ALLEGED

Alleging fraud and demanding a recount, a petition was presented in Common Pleas Court today by Attorney Edward C. Spotts, asking for the impounding of the ballot box of the Fourth district of Indiana township. Spotts is acting in behalf of Charles W. and Carl C. Voskamp and A. L. Heile, citizens of Indiana township.

WOMEN TELL OF ALLEGED ARSON PLOTTING

Proposals to burn the millinery store of Mrs. Carrie M. Deverts at 455 East Ohio street, North Side, and the rooming house of Miss Mabel Yochum at 601 Pressley street, to obtain additional insurance, were related by the two women yesterday in Criminal Court before a jury and Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff of Kittanning, in the trial of Harry Frank of Webster avenue and Meyer Letwin of Harvard street on seven charges of conspiracy, and one charge each of arson and attempt to burn a building to defraud an insurance company.

Both women testified that they were approached by Samuel Friedman of Beechwood boulevard in July with proposals to set fire to their places of business and that through him they doubled their insurance before enlisting the aid of County Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr in laying a trap. Mrs. Deverts said Friedman brought a man to increase her insurance, introducing him as "Mr. Murder," and citing his record and that of those associated with Friedman for previous fires. Mrs. Deverts said she was told the fire would cost her $200 and would be successful. She said Frank came to her house July 29, but she declined to see him.

Testimony was produced by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner to show that Frank and Letwin were caught in Mrs. Deverts' store Sunday, July 31, preparing to set fire to it and that they signed confessions. Friedman and Simon Rosenthal of Beacon street were arraigned as defendants but entered pleas of guilty.

Salt in Shoe as Cure For Insomnia Legal

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Faith healing may be "foolish," but there is nothing in the laws of Pennsylvania to prohibit the placing of a pinch of salt in your shoe and your bed to cure insomnia.

Justice Trexler, of the State Superior Court, has so ruled in reversing the conviction by the Chester county courts of an associate minister of the First Spiritualist Church of Pottstown, of violating the fortune-telling act of 1861. The minister, David B. Blair, Chester, had been sentenced to 30 days in jail and to pay a fine of $50 after state policeman testified he was advised to place a pinch of salt in his shoes and put salt in his bed in the form of a cross when he complained to Blair that he could not sleep at night.

In his opinion the justice said: "The advice Blair gave that the witness should put a pinch of salt in his shoes and also in his bed is foolish, but he did not furnish the salt nor did he assert that the salt to be used was any but ordinary salt.

"We cannot determine whether he was sincere. There are pretenders in every sort of religion. We must accord to any one the right to believe and assert that prayer will heal the sick."

PASTOR DENIES HE ATTACKED PENNINGTON

Repudiation of a telegram signed "Dr. Duncan," which was sent to Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran at Washington in criticism of John D. Pennington, enforcement chief for this district, was made today by Dr. W. Woffard T. Duncan, pastor of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. Dr. Duncan said:

"I never sent any such telegram. I was out of the city on the night it was sent and have only the very highest praise for Commander Pennington. If I had wished to make any criticism of his work here I would have gone to him directly. But I have no criticism. The evident desire of some enemies of prohibition enforcement to discredit him and their willingness to resort to disreputable methods to accomplish it shows the straits to which they are reduced by the administration's impartial and thorough enforcement of law.

"It was my pleasure to find Commander Pennington in my congregation last Sunday night, to invite him to my pulpit and introduce him to a large congregation which received him most enthusiastically. At that service I read the telegram and repudiated it."

NEGRO PATROLMAN HELD IN CAFE BLACK-JACKING

VICTIM DYING, SIX OTHER MEN HELD

Patrolman Edmund Parfitt, Negro, and six other men were under arrest today pending investigation into "blackjack treatment" Parfitt is said to have administered to a drunken man in an Epiphany street place yesterday.

The victim, Charles Smith, 35, Fayette, Pa., is in St. Francis Hospital and his condition is such that the Homicide Squad, which investigates murders, was detailed to the case today.

Parfitt, according to reports of Inspector John B. Chancey, was in the place at 1203 Epiphany street in plain clothes. Smith, who had been drinking, indulging in what witnesses described as "a booze fit."

USED BLACKJACK

The witnesses said Parfitt first threw water on Smith and, when he failed to recover, struck him with a blackjack. The patrol was called and Smith was rushed to St. Francis Hospital after Mercy Hospital refused to keep him because he was thought to be on the verge of delerium tremens.

Parfitt, according to the official report at No. 2 Police Station, was in the place gathering evidence preliminary to a raid and bought a pint of liquor which he turned over to his superiors.

After several attempts to elicit information concerning Smith from St. Francis Hospital had failed, hospital attaches finally stated that he said he had been injured in a fall.

SHORT SKIRT WINS AGAIN!

NOW YOU SEE WHY

Failed to Succor Dog He Hit; Fined $10

Albert Goldstein, of 3450 Parkview avenue, Oakland, was fined $10 and cost last night on a charge of failing to render assistance to a dog struck by his automobile on December 2.

The story of how the animal lay in Forbes street, near Lawn street, while Vincent Jordam, of 3213 Elsinore street, the owner, plead with Goldstein to take the animal to a hospital, was related before Alderman John A. Joyce, of the West End.

Jordam said he and a young woman friend were about to cross Forbes street when they saw the machine speeding towards them. They stepped back to the curb, but the dog was knocked about 50 feet, it was testified, and the only satisfaction Jordam said he got from Goldstein was an invitation to take his license number.

When he turned to look for the dog, the animal had disappeared, and it was not found until four o'clock the following afternoon, when it was located in an empty building several squares away, suffering from a broken jaw. The animal was given veterinary attention and was reported on the road to recovery.

Let Baby Doomed to Deformity Die

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Possibility of a parallel to the Baby Bollinger case of 12 years ago was seen today when a baby girl born without a brain died at a hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cullen, parents of the infant, were quoted by the Herald and Examiner as agreeing death would be more humane than a life of paralysis and imbecility to which the child was doomed had it lived. Hospital attendants said the child would have died in spite of any effort to save it.

The newspaper quoted Dr. Martin Schupmann, attending physician, as saying the child would never have been able to think, talk or move, and for that reason "we decided to allow nature to correct its own mistake."

Twelve years ago the late Dr. Harry J. Haiselden refused to operate on Baby Bollinger to save its life because it was hopelessly deformed.

37 BODIES RECOVERED FROM ORPHANAGE RUINS

Expect Quebec Blaze Toll to Reach 43

By International News Service

QUEBEC, Dec. 16.—Official searchers for the bodies of children in the ruins of the Hospice St. Charles Convent, which was destroyed by fire here early yesterday, announced early today that 37 bodies have been recovered. Thirty-six of these were little children and one an adult, Anna Gaudreault, 17, heroine of the holocaust, who made three trips alone into the burning building rescuing parties of eight and ten children in each expedition, but met death herself on the fourth attempt.

According to police who spent the greater part of the night in combing the city for missing children who had been given shelter in strange homes, the terrific strain of their harrowing experience so unnerved the youthful survivors that they were unable to give an account of themselves or their names. Less than 10 of the inmates of the building are now unaccounted for.

The death roll total, police believe, will stand at 42 or 43 when all details of the search have been cleared. This figure is lower than estimates given out in official quarters during the day on Thursday, a condition due to the nervous tension which prevailed and to the fact that many rescued children had been given sanctuary in strange homes in all parts of Quebec.

Today the official sequel to the catastrophe got under way. Coroner Doctor Jolicoeur began this morning the holding of 37 inquests.

Fire Marshal Leclerc launched an investigation into the cause of the fire, which is unofficially attributed to a furnace explosion, or to an outbreak originated in materials left in the basement of one wing by a repair crew.

GIRL HURT AS CAB HITS POLE

Miss Marie Deandrea, 22, of 916½ Federal street, was cut by glass and bruised early this morning when a taxicab in which she was riding skidded into a pole at Montgomery avenue and Arch street and was wrecked. J. W. Horne, 21, of 1 Enfield street, driver of the cab, was held on a charge of reckless driving. Miss Deandrea was removed to the Presbyterian Hospital.

While cranking an automobile at the north approach of the Manchester bridge late yesterday, Anthony Griffen, 46, of 1502 Sedgwick street, was struck by a passing truck. He was injured seriously. The driver is being sought.

William H. Allen, 79, of 416 Stengel street, was struck by a hit-and-run driver at Galveston avenue and Reedsdale street and was in the Allegheny General Hospital in a serious condition.

Lost 3 Days in Woods, Pa. Deer Hunter Safe

LIGONIER, Pa., Dec. 16.—Lost for three days and two nights in the woods on Chestnut Ridge, Bert Bridgeman, 48, of Logans Ferry, made his way back to his camp, near Rector, last night. He is suffering from exposure.

The deer which he trailed after wounding it and which caused him to become separated from his hunting companions, Chief of Police Clyde Rupert, of Derry, and Charles W. Johnston, of Logans Ferry, was stolen when Bridgeman returned to the camp.

Bridgeman shot a deer last Tuesday and took up the trail. He later killed it, but could not find his way out of the woods. When night came he fired his rifle to attract the attention of other hunters and failed. sleep, using the dead buck as a pillow. Next morning he started out to find his camp after marking the spot where he had placed the buck. Again he failed and the second night he used the buck for a pillow. It was raining almost constantly.

Late yesterday he met a hunter in the woods and was directed to Rector and then located his camp.

Game wardens, hunters and fire wardens were called off from the hunt. Bridgeman's companions went to the spot where he had cached his deer, and found that it had been stolen.

DOUBT STORY OF ATTACK

Claiming that he was attacked in South Millvale avenue near Liberty avenue last night John Richards, 18, of 722 Cherokee street, is in the West Penn Hospital suffering a fractured skull and body bruises. Police doubt the story of the attack and believe that the man was injured in a fall.

Richards was questioned at the hospital by Detectives John Sullivan and C. J. Deschbach and he told the sleuths that he had been waylaid and beaten. He told them he was robbed of his $28 pay check from a downtown store where he was employed as a truck driver, but investigation, police say, revealed he had not worked for several months.

100,000 HELPING TOY MISSION

Great Army to Bring Yule Cheer to Poor

With more than 100,000 persons participating, the Toy Mission is Pittsburgh's greatest holiday activity. Twenty thousand children who are to be cheered by the gifts comprise only a small proportion of those whose Christmas is made brighter by the distribution of toys, books and dolls.

"The thousands of persons who give used playthings and hundreds of others who make cash donations with which to purchase new toys get quite as much pleasure in the giving as the little folks have in receiving," said Manager George L. Bond. "And then there are thousands of women who assist in dressing dolls, the drivers of trucks who gather up the toys, the news agents of the Sun-Tele who operate the receiving stations, the street car conductors and other railway employes who handle the gifts, not to mention the scores of volunteer assistants who work here at night putting up the bundles and packages for distribution.

"And bear in mind that this work is all done by volunteers. The letter carrier who works here till midnight after walking the streets all day in his duties has no reimbursement but the pleasure he gets out of this job. The young railroader who is employed in flagging trains all night and who works for us a goodly part of the day says he already is enjoying his Christmas. There is no money that could buy the joy these good people get out of the work of doing something for the happiness of little children.

"In the public and parochial schools there are several thousand workers and it is through them that we obtain lists of deserving families. The Toy Mission is one of the few institutions in the world that has no payroll."

Acknowledgment is made through the Sun-Tele Auxiliary of gifts from the Fortnightly Club of Elizabeth, the Woman's Club of Ingomar and women's organizations in the Beaver Valley. A truckload of high chairs, small rockers and children's tables was donated by the Standard Furniture Manufacturing Company. Checks were received from J. M. Stewart, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McCracken.

COMING HIS WAY

PAUL SCHULZE AND BRIDE

"Well, we made it, with time to spare," rejoice Paul Schulze and his titian-haired bride, Dorothy Andrews Schulze, honeymooning, assured of a farm with three oil wells near Los Angeles, and $4,500 cash. Schulze's uncle left him the farm and money on condition he marry by January 1, 1928, but he was kept in a hospital after an auto accident and couldn't go bride hunting. Then Miss Andrews, his childhood sweetheart, heard of his plight and came here.

BRIDGE CONFAB CALLED OFF

The proposed conference between members of Council and the County Commissioners on the sudden decision of the county board not to take over the four river bridges still owned by the city, may not be held. Last night Mayor Charles H. Kline informed the city's lawmakers that the commissioners, "owing to the health of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong," would not be able to participate in such a conference this week. The county's unexpected refusal to take over the bridges, which has caused the commissioners to be accused by Councilmen of breaking an agreement, will add more than $300,000—Nearly one-half mill tax—to the budget.

NAME CITY'S MEMBERS ON U. S. TRAFFIC BOARD

Pittsburgh is to have three members of the national commission to codify and harmonize traffic laws throughout America, it developed last night when Gen. A. J. Logan, head of the Better Traffic Committee, announced that Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover had asked him to name that number. Gen. Logan named Burton W. Marsh, city traffic engineer; L. W. McIntyre, and Thomas Fitzgerald of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

SHIPPERS SEE BUSINESS GAIN EARLY IN '28

Improved prospects for the first quarter of 1928 in several lines of industry in the Pittsburgh district are shown by estimates of car requirements contained in reports submitted yesterday to the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board meeting in the William Penn Hotel. The membership of the organization is composed entirely of shippers and receivers of freight and the meeting was attended by 150 representatives of the public and 200 representatives of railroads.

The industries in the brick and clay products group "look forward with optimism to the forthcoming first quarter of 1928 as compared with the same period of 1927, estimating their car requirements to be practically the same," according to the reports. "This would indicate that in their opinion building construction will be on a par with the year before."

The reports showed that cement producers anticipate an increase of 25 per cent in their car requirements for the first three months of 1928 as compared to the same period of 1927, and that the lime industry anticipates an increase of .3 per cent. Under miscellaneous these anticipated increases are shown: Agricultural implements and vehicles other than automobiles, 6.4 per cent; automotive vehicles, 11.9 per cent; fertilizer, all kinds, 5 per cent; paper and products, 8.4 per cent; canned goods, all canned food products, 12.5 per cent.

The unsettled conditions in the bituminous coal industry have adversely affected that industry as well as kindred and dependent industries, reports showed. While the Northern West Virginia coal fields estimated their car requirements for the first quarter of 1928 will exceed their actual shipments for the same period of 1927 by 10.6 per cent, all other territories showed a decrease in requirements, the combined figures for the four coal fields in the region showing a decrease in requirements of 4.1 per cent. Western Pennsylvania shows a decrease of 5.9 per cent, Central Pennsylvania 10.8 per cent and Eastern Ohio 42.9 per cent. As a result of the same conditions, coke producers in the region estimate a reduction of 22 per cent in car requirements.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Blood Tells Tales of Personal Habits.

THERE are certain functions performed by the blood which are overlooked by careless persons. Indeed, the uninformed may not know why we have blood.

DR. COPELAND

It is the business of this fluid to carry nourishment to every cell and fiber of the body. We take food into the mouth, chew and swallow it. The stomach and other "digestive organs" prepare it for absorption. But up to this point, it is of no more value to the body than so much food on the shelves of a grocery store.

Until the food is distributed to every part of the anatomy, it can do no good. The blood must convey the nourishing material and that is the first of its vital functions.

But there is a second important thing done by the blood. It sweeps away the impurities, the waste and the poisons of the body. The blood flows in a cleansing stream, washing away materials which would do us harm if not promptly removed.

There is a third function which we are unlikely to recall. This consists in taking up the secretions of the ductless glands. These are needed to stimulate the vital forces, to keep the organs at work, and to regulate the machinery of the body.

Just what the secretions of the so-called ductless glands actually do for us is not clear to anybody. But all the scientists agree that in some mysterious way the products of these glands are intimately related to life and vital function. Whatever it is they do, they cannot perform unless the blood stream carries them on their journey.

You can see that three important activities are carried on by the blood. Time must be given for each of them. If a boy is kept busy filling up the wood boxes, he cannot gather the eggs or milk the cow. There must be a division of time so that each task will be given its share.

If you eat too much or too often, the blood stream is choked with food substances. Instead of having leisure to carry away waste and to pick up the products of gland action, all the energies of the blood are devoted to food distribution.

If you overeat or keep nibbling at food between meals, you give the blood no chance to perform its other functions. In consequence you grow fat, your heart does not act as it should, and your brain fails to do its best.

To place undue effort upon the food carrying functions of the blood gives it no opportunity to carry away waste and body poisons. What happens then? The skin is muddy and pimply, the kidneys are overworked, body odors are noted, the tongue is furred and the breath bad.

The moral of this statement is that food should be well selected, eaten in moderation and taken at meal time only.

Answers to Health Queries.

J. N. Q.—What is the cause of large blotches of blue veins showing plainly through the skin of my legs?

A.—Your trouble is probably due to varicose veins caused by increased tension of the veins. Constant external pressure, some obstruction of the deep veins, or, as in many cases, habitual overexertion, such as long standing, will cause these veins to appear. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. M. Q.—Is there such a disease as high blood pressure?

2.—Please give the symptoms of high blood pressure.

3.—What is the cause of high blood pressure?

A.—It is not a disease; it is a symptom.

2.—Flushing of the face, nose bleeds, dizziness and pains in the head.

3.—Indiscretion of diet for a long time is the most common cause. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Fay King Stresses Value of Little Things

By FAY KING.

LITTLE things are very important!

The trained eye and ear is quick to detect details which are most indicative.

As the straw shows which way the wind is blowing, so the smallest clue may solve a crime.

The aviator can detect the slightest miss in the purr of his engine and be warned of trouble.

Those who handle much silver can tell by the ring of a coin whether it is good or not.

Counterfeit money can be detected by the minute engraved lines and threads that are pressed into the paper.

A young man who set out to swindle a smart hotel with his swank manner and immaculate wardrobe did not fool them for a minute.

He was suspected by his neglected nails.

Not long ago I saw a picture in a theatrical paper of a couple apparently posed with Lindy. One glance at the shadows showed me it was a "composite picture." The shadows would have been the same had they posed in the same light together, but they weren't.

When we read a legal document prepared by an able lawyer we are bored with the many "unnecessary" small words which seem to us a useless repetition of silly detail, but these very unimportant words of two or three letters can make or unmake the agreement.

One may read the most glowing accounts of alluring investments, but the initiated know there is no comeback because the important guaranty of its reliability is omitted.

And so you see it pays to pay attention to small things, which, like the straw, can show which way the wind blows!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

SOME lipsticked lips are so vivid, they look just like a "Park your kisses here," sign.

Giving a man a pair of slippers for Christmas may mean that he will "walk away;" but don't fancy that giving him a pair of cuff-links signifies that he will "stay put."

* * *

The American man's love-making may leave something to be desired; but his divorce-manners are perfectly beautiful. Many a woman never sees her husband at his best until they have promised to part forever.

HELEN ROWLAND

The test of a husband's devotion, these days, is his ability to look upon a can-opener as an ideal cooking utensil.

The first time a girl marries, it is usually because she needs love; the second time, because she needs companionship; the third time, because she needs an alienist.

No, Marjorie, a man is not really in love until the sound of the orchestra playing a sentimental air, interferes with his appetite.

Men are never satisfied with women. The man of tomorrow will probably be sighing for the "sweet old-fashioned mid-Georgian flapper" who wore her skirts way down to her knees, and never permitted a man to kiss her until after the third dance.

* * *

When a woman shows the first flicker of jealousy, she is boring the man, flattering the other woman, and insulting herself.

We can get along without almost anything in this world, except appreciation, love and understanding; but life without these, however brilliant, is like playing to an empty house.

* * *

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Saturday, December 17.

No man was ever really educated unless the greater part of it was developed by work, in some useful service.—ANON.

AN active and interesting day, with fine stimulus to enterprise and initiative, is the augury based upon the favorable position of ruling planets. By following this lead with diligence and perseverance much may be accomplished and new avenues opened, but unusual precaution should be exercised in the handling of the funds, either in speculation or extravagant indulgence. It may also be advisable to circumvent small deceptions and worries.

Those whose birthday it is may be imbued with a spirit of initiative and adventure during the year, but it would be well to keep all under wise control, achieving by industry and application rather than by risk and impulsive moves.

The finances should not be risked in extravagance or speculation. Small worries or deceptions are indicated.

A child born on this day may be lively, adventurous and enterprising, as well as industrious, clever and versatile.

Notable Nativity: Herbert Tree, British actor.

Tagging the Umbrella

One of the latest practical novelties is an umbrella with an old ivory composition handle, which has an ornamental tassel that encloses an address tag. Beneath the silken sheath, which finishes the wristcord, is an ivory strip upon which should be written the owner's name and address.

RUTH CAMPBELL'S vivid fancy is ably seconded by Tenggren's unusual pictures. Small Fry makes the wonders of the world more than ever wonderful, and this book holds its young reader to the very last word.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR G. O. P. IN SENATE POLL

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—With the solid support of the Western insurgents, the Republicans yesterday completed organization of the Senate by electing their entire slate of candidates with the tacit consent of the Democrats.

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, was elected president pro-tem, defeating Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, the Democratic nominee, by vote of 42 to 39. Col. Edwin P. Thayer, of Indiana, was re-elected secretary over Edwin A. Halsey, of Virginia. Halsey and C. A. Loeffler then were re-elected doorkeepers.

The Democrats made a half-hearted attempt to defeat Sergeant-at-arms David S. Barry for re-election, but Barry won out by a narrow margin over J. H. Debell, of Montana, the Democratic nominee.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, branded Barry as a "recalcitrant" employe of the Senate because he refused to impound the ballots cast in the disputed Vare-Wilson election contest in Pennsylvania last spring when ordered to do so by the Reed "slush" fund committee.

Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, of Minnesota, announced that he voted for Barry because the Reed committee failed to prefer charges against him. He warned that in future he would oppose the re-election of any Senate employe who refused to carry out the mandates of its members.

BLOCKADE TIGHTENS ABOUT ICE-LOCKED BOATS

FAIL IN EFFORT TO SHATTER BARRIERS

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The only exit to Lake Huron for the 24 ships of the Sault Ice blockade was closed last night when the steamer Hamonic became stuck fast in the ice in the middle Neebish channel while attempting to cut a lane through the channel.

The 24 ships, manned by 600 men and carrying grain cargoes with a total estimated value of $7,000,000, now face the prospect of being icebound for the winter. Six large tugs for three days failed in attempts to break the ice and free the stranded boats and the James B. Eades, which made an heroic effort to cut through the down-bound channel, is fast in the ice. The Eades is reported leaking forward as a result of having hit a submerged object.

The Hamonic in attempting to open a passageway through the up-bound channel was stopped by six-inch ice. With zero temperatures prevailing and a gale blowing, it was expected that the ice jam would become more solid.

DORSETT NAMED STATE GRANGE HEAD

By International News Service.

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 16.—E. B. Dorsett, of Mansfield, today headed the Pennsylvania Grange Association, following his induction to office here last night. Dorsett was elected in a spirited contest in which he defeated John McSparran, of Lancaster.

Dorsett will serve one year, filling out the unexpired term of Phillip Dewey, of Gaines, elected a year ago for a two-year term.

Other officers selected were: Kenei Bagshaw, Hollidaysburg, member executive committee; John S. Dale, State College, member finance committee; George W. Schuler, Fleetwood, director Keystone Exchange.

The Grange went on record as being opposed to the proposed $50,000,000 for the protection of forests. They also indorsed the extensive building program for the State College, involving $8,000,000.

Quartetto Notturno (Good Night Quartet) from "Martha" ....Flotow
Mmes. Morgana and Meisle—Mme. Althouse and Gustafson.

If we cannot have grand opera we shall have to bring singers to give us this music in concert form, singers like the four stars of the Grand Opera Quartet who sang for us in Syria Mosque last night. Such a concert has tremendous artistic limitations, but with good voices, the program is never so wearisome as it looks, and the audience can relax and listen with little expenditure of cerebral energy. The concert was all it set out to be, with now and then a hint of excellent recital singing.

Nina Morgana was the soprano, given a little to calisthenics and monopolizing the evening. We were happy enough to hear her encores, but she seemed to forget her colleagues and that her group of songs was a long way from the end of the program. She has fine command of the Italian style; her folk music has great charm. Kathryn Meisle has sung several times for our audiences, always with greater art. Her Mahler songs with orchestra several seasons ago predicted the fine singing we heard last night. Her voice is a true contralto, free of chronic contralto defects, and is still undergoing development and refining. She should soon be an ideal recital singer, judging from her Schubert songs, while the breadth of her style, her power, fine diction and general department must make her an important member of the Chicago Opera.

William Gustafson is a figure for the opera, too. Built like a viking, he sings with the fervor and sincerity of an ancient bard. It was a long way from the flowery passages of Handel to the declamatory "Salvator Rosa" and then to the ballad "Danny Deever" given as encore, but the singer's voice, breath and style was equal to them all. There are few American tenors who sing as well as Paul Althouse. There were moments when his voice showed fatigue, but the upper register has glorious tones and throughout the program there were many opportunities for his leading the ensemble numbers.

It seemed strange that four singers with such distinct styles and personalities could blend their voices so well for concert singing, but it was so, until the quartet from "Martha" when they must have had a plenty as well as the public. Alice Valden played accompaniments for Miss Morgana, and Solon Alberti for the other singers. Both players were most capable.

'Funny Folks' on Sale Until Christmas

"All the Funny Folks" will remain on the sales counters of news dealers and newsstands until Christmas, at least. This—one of the most pleasing of all gifts—is already assured to many thousands of children for the festive stocking.

It has become the favorite Christmas gift.

With every one of its 112 pages bright with the cavorting aristocrats of America's cartoon-land: with 500 many-colored illustrations enlivening the entertaining story, it will give many a joyous hour to children and adults alike.

Jack Lait has taken for the theme of his jingles all the characters appearing in the Hearst newspaper comics, and built around them an imaginative story of romance, action, humor. Assisted by an able artist, he has made the book into a masterpiece of fun. Nearly every news dealer handles the sale of the book. Some are:

IN MEMORIAM.

WILLIAM HOWARD NIMICK.

Adopted by the Board of Directors of the Keystone National Bank of Pittsburgh the fifteenth day of December, 1927.

It is with profound sorrow that we record the death of William Howard Nimick, Chairman of this Board, which occurred December 8, 1927. He served this bank with marked ability and constant fidelity as a Director for more than 40 years; as Vice-President from 1896 to 1909; as President from 1909 to 1921; and as Chairman of the Board from 1921 to the time of his death. His sound judgment and sterling character has made a substantial contribution to the growth and success of this institution, as have his gentle manner and kindly disposition to the lives of all his associates. So it is with mingled emotions of sorrow and pride that we record this slight tribute to an honest man, a genial comrade, and a steadfast friend, whose memory we shall ever cherish and hold dear.

We feel deeply his absence and tender to his family our sincere sympathy in their sorrow.

The Board of Directors of
THE KEYSTONE NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH,
By A. S. BEYMER,
President.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR $290,000,000 TAX CUT

MELLON LIMIT EXCEEDED BY $65,000,000

By ARTHUR HACHTEN,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—After a savage battle in which the Democrats won every victory, the House last night passed the new revenue bill affording tax reduction totaling approximately $290,000,000. The vote was 366 to 24.

The Republicans made an unsuccessful last-minute attempt to refer the measure back to the Ways and Means Committee with the hope of bringing the total tax cut back near the $225,000,000 recommended by Secretary Mellon and backed by President Coolidge. The vote was 93 to 201.

Vain efforts were also made by Republican leaders to have the House rescind its previous action in repealing entirely the war time excise tax on automobiles; in abolishing consolidated tax returns by affiliated corporations and requiring them to make separate returns; and providing a graduated tax on corporations having net income up to $15,000.

The Democratic line held solidly against all moves of administration forces. Augmented by a sufficient number of Republicans, the Democrats in a roll call vote mustered 212 votes for a graduated tax on small corporations to 181 against the proposition.

Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, offered the amendment which provided for a tax of 5 per cent on corporations' incomes up to $7,000; 7 per cent on incomes between $7,000 and $12,000; and 9 per cent on incomes between $12,000 and $15,000. Incomes above $15,000 would call for an 11½ per cent tax.

The graduated tax affords $24,000,000 relief for the corporations.

Garner's amendment abolishing consolidated tax returns of affiliated corporations also was approved in a roll call, 210 to 187.

As a result of the Garner amendment, corporations having subsidiaries in which they own 95 per cent or more of stock are required to file separate returns for each affiliated company.

They are not allowed to pool profits of their successful affiliated companies against losses of those that are unprofitable and strike an average.

An amendment offered by McLaughlin, Republican, of Michigan, repealing entirely the excise tax on automobiles was sustained on a roll call, 245 to 161.

As reported to the House, the bill reduced the tax on automobiles from the 3 per cent carried in the present law to 1½ per cent, thereby lopping off $33,000,000 on revenue.

But the House decided to wipe out entirely this war time levy, saving purchasers of automobiles $66,000,000.

The original bill called for tax reduction totaling $232,000,000. In knocking out the 1½ per cent rate provided for automobiles and giving corporations having small incomes a graduated scale, the House lifted this total $57,000,000.

FLOOD STEAM FILLS STREETS

STEAM PALL STARTLES DOWNTOWN SHOPPERS.

A huge pall of steam over the downtown business districts startled Christmas shoppers yesterday and today. Flood stages of the Allegheny River forced water into underground tunnels which carry the heat pipes in the lower Penn avenue district. The water striking the pipes caused the great pall of steam shown pouring through the Penn avenue pavement near Fifth just before noon today.

PIG TURNS ON MAN, BITES HIM AFTER HE KICKS IT

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 16.—A vicious pig turned on Karl Kelly, of Sandy Lake, when he kicked it out of the road, and bit him in the foot. Kelly had to be treated at the Mercer Hospital.

COOLIDGE DISPLEASED AT AMOUNT OF TAX REDUCTION

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—President Coolidge is thoroughly dissatisfied with the $290,000,000 tax-reduction bill passed by the House, visitors to the White House declared.

The President was very much disturbed because of increases in tax reduction added in the House and made it plain that if the bill reached a place where it would wipe out the Treasury surplus, thus bringing about the danger of a deficit he would feel justified in withholding his approval," Representative Strong, Republican of Kansas, said.

President Coolidge has warned that tax reduction far above the $225,000,000 recommended by the treasury would probably cause a Treasury deficit and call for an increase in taxes later.

AUTOS CRASH, GIRL HURT

One girl was injured and two men escaped with slight bruises in an automobile crash at Baum boulevard and Morewood avenue this morning. The injured girl is Miss Dorothy Horner, 20, of 5470 Kincaid street. She was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital.

Miss Horner was riding in a small roadster with her brother, Jack Horner, and when the latter attempted to turn into Morewood avenue his car was struck by a machine driven by T. W. Mahaffey, of 1215 Brookline boulevard, which overturned. Both drivers were arrested.

House Bill Compared With Mellon Tax Plan

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The revenue bill as passed by the House providing tax reductions totaling $292,545,000 and increases of $2,780,000, or a net reduction of $289,765,000, and a comparison of the recommendations of Secretary Mellon follow:

Admissions tax: Exemptions increase, 75 cents to $1—$8,000,000.

Club dues tax: Reduced from 10 to 5 per cent—$5,000,000.

Reduction from 2 cents to 1 cent per $100 of transfers of capital stock on exchanges—$8,000,000.

Income from bankers' acceptances: Exemption for foreign banks of issue—$30,000.

Total reduction—$292,545,000.

Taxes increased:

Withholding of tax at source of tax free securities in the case of nonresident aliens and foreign corporations—$2,000,000.

Admission to prize fights: A tax of 25 per cent on admissions of $5 and over, with complimentary passes subject to the same tax as the value of seats they cover—$750,000.

Use of foreign-built boats: 500 per cent increase in the present footage tax on pleasure boats used in American waters—$80,000.

Total—$2,780,000.

Net tax reduction—$289,765,000.

The reduction in the corporate income tax rate would apply retroactively to 1927 incomes; repeal of automobile tax and reduction in the rate on admissions and dues effective 30 days after signing of bill by the President.

DRY LEGAL AIDE RESIGNS

Attorney James A. Geltz, first assistant legal adviser to Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, has resigned from the government service. Mr. Geltz entered the government service in October, 1925, being appointed by former Administrator F. C. Baird. He was in charge of the revocation section and was acting legal adviser to the administrator before the appointment of Attorney Lewis E. Graham as chief legal advisor in the Pittsburgh office of the prohibition department.

Mr. Geltz retired from the government service in order to devote his time to private practice. He will be associated with Attorney Charles B. Prichard.

Behind her class

perhaps another victim of cachexia (run-down condition)

When lessons become too hard and children fall behind in their studies, consider first their physical condition. Many children, unknown to their parents, suffer from cachexia, and hence are not up to normal either physically or mentally.

Have your child eat Yeast Foam Tablets for a while. This yeast is absolutely pure. It is a food, not a drug or medicine. It doesn't ferment. And it has a delicious taste that everyone likes.

For better appetite, and digestion; for strength and energy, eat Yeast Foam Tablets. Five cents for the handy packet or 50c for the large bottle.

Eat Yeast Foam Tablets for cachexia (run-down condition). Loss of appetite. Indigestion. Constipation. Boils—Pimples.

UNIVERSITY PAYROLL STOLEN

SECOND NEWS SECTION — THE SUN TELEGRAPH — SPORTS FEATURES

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1927

TWO MORE AMBASSADORS

FOLLOWING LINDBERGH TRAIL BY LAND

Convinced there is more to be seen than Buffalo, N. Y., offers, Jean and Peggy MacCarroll, sisters in blood and adventure, have sallied forth on a hiking expedition in search of romance. They whisked through Pittsburgh today, en route to New York and eventually, they hope, Mexico, and stopped only long enough to pay their regards to the cameraman. Note, hanging from their knickers, the clotheslines which will be used to help them over the treacherous mountains of Mexico.

REFUSED POLICE GUARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Refusal to accept a police guard for the cashier's office on payday probably cost the University of Chicago $22,818.31 in a payroll robbery last night.

Chief of Police Hughes recently ordered all precinct captains to furnish guards for movements of large sums of money in their districts, threatening removal of captains where robberies occurred. Capt. Michael Tobin was suspended after the holdup, but when he explained his offer to the university had been refused, the chief indicated the suspension would be lifted.

CAN'T FORCE AID

"You can't force protection on a university if it doesn't want it," he said.

William J. Mathier, cashier, and several young women employes failed to identify six suspects, but the men were held in the hope that further questioning might lead to arrests. Police believed the suspects knew the identity of the robbers.

Familiarity of the armed men with the cashier's office, the timing of the holdup just 15 minutes after the money had been delivered in an armored messenger car, and a statement by one of the young women that she recognized the voice of one of the bandits as a former employe prompted a theory that the robbery was an "inside job."

While the money was being counted five armed men entered.

"If you want to live, don't make a move," barked the masked leader, who carried a sawed-off shotgun. "We want money and we'll shoot to get it if we have to."

Apparently carrying out a prearranged plan, his four companions, three of whom were masked, looted the cages. Within five minutes the robbery was completed and the men had fled in an automobile.

Rogers Wants to Find Mexico's 'Sugar Daddy'

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Dec. 16.—Somebody could have been president yesterday without a revolution if they had just thought about it while he was at the aviation field. With all the soldiers in Mexico, they could have taken the palace, sent out their laundry and announced that they was president.

WILL ROGERS.

While we were having breakfast at the embassy somebody told Lindbergh that he ought to stay and see some of Mexico while here. He said, I saw all Mexico yesterday but the Gulf of Lower California. To show you the modesty of this fellow, the Ambassador was reading how the whole world printed extras of his trip. He said, "Papers ought to give me a prize for getting more sensational headlines for less reason than anyone ever did before." If you have wondered what a hero eats for breakfast, he had fruit, ham and eggs and toast and coffee. Just about what a common feller will eat when he can get it.

Yours,

WILL.

P. S.—Has the Senate found out who gave the senators the money down here? I want to see if there is any left.

WILL ROGERS.

PASSENGER HOLDS UP, ROBS TAXI CAB DRIVER

Charles Fox, 28, of 1213 Irwin avenue, a cab driver, was robbed of $4.80 last night in West Park way and Sherman street by a passenger in his automobile, who had been joined by two other men a few minutes before the holdup. Fox picked his fare up at the Fort Wayne Station, drove to the intersection, where the others were waiting and then was held up, he told police.

THEIR STOLEN JOY RIDE ENDS

WHY THE REVOLVER?

That's the question City Detective William Warnock put to four boys he arrested in a stolen car on Smithfield Street Bridge. The boys, 15 and 16, hail from "the Strip" and one, Dominick Narr, is a brother of Josephine Narr, alleged bandit siren taken with "Strip" gangsters 10 days ago. Detectives say the boys have criminal records. They are, front, Robert Frank, left, 83 Forty-fifth street, and Regis Hughes, 130 Holmes street, and, rear, William Beatty, left, 4025 Eden way, and Narr, 147 Ammon way. The revolver was found on Beatty, police said. All were held for investigation.

BARES RIFT IN VELMA'S HOME

By Universal Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 16.—Rifts in the marital life of Velma Van Woert West, that preceded her hammer slaying of her "Main Street" husband, Edward West of Perry, O., were revealed last night by Valentino Del Fino, barber, to whom she had confided her troubles while he trimmed her hair.

Meanwhile, Velma of the dual personality, the city butterfly who couldn't stand the monotony of life in the country, had turned from her Chinese puzzle blocks and confession magazines and was seeking solace in the Bible and in the hundreds of "fan letters" that have been pouring in on her since her arrest and confession.

The barber revealed for the first time that Velma, who went back to the shelter of her mother's home seven weeks ago after an argument with the husband she later slew, deserted their "love cottage" a second time the day before Thanksgiving.

"She came into the shop and sat down to wait her turn to have her bob trimmed," the barber said, "her face was thin and drawn and she appeared to have lost weight. She didn't look as well and healthy as she did before her marriage, and I said to her, 'What's the matter, Velma?'

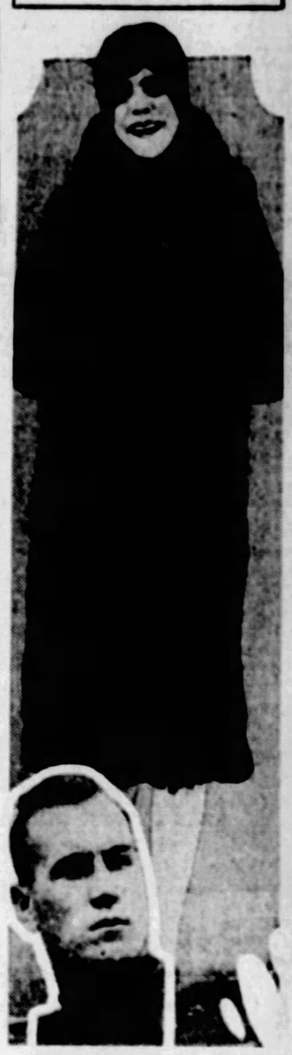
"Then she said 'my husband strikes me. He scolds me all the time and over the littlest things that's wrong with the house.'

"She told me she couldn't stand it any longer and had come to Cleveland to stay with her girl friend, Mabel Young, the same girl at whose home she laughed and sang and played bridge that night after she had killed her husband."

"Badges of Shame" Urged for Autos in Accidents

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—"Badges of shame" have been suggested at a meeting of the public school safety league for every motor car held responsible for an accident. Chester J. Alger, a director of safety, said the badges might take the form of a red vehicle license tag to be displayed by offending cars.

Star Weds



ALL-AMERICAN MRS.

Herb Joesting, University of Minnesota's All-America fullback, fumbled one at the license clerk's office in Chicago and the school learned he was to wed Lora Davidson, of Minneapolis. Miss Davidson is a co-ed. Their romance started when both were freshmen. They're seniors now and were married Monday before Herb left for the coast to play on the "all East" college eleven.

KIWANIANS "TRADE IN" -:- OLD -:- TROUBLES FOR NEW

DUMP YOUR WOES HERE.

The perfect method of getting rid of one's liabilities—"white elephants"—is to exchange them. Kiwanis Club members discovered at a weekly program. Here, for instance, W. J. McAllister is showing W. L. Phipps and B. R. Headrick just how it's done.

ANYTHING ELSE, BUT!

None, however, had the audacity to suggest that Anzelma M. Nash, the club's Miss Boswell, was a white—or any other color—elephant on anybody's hands. So she remained the only woman at the festivities.

WHO WANTS A SASHWEIGHT?

Val Storch seems to be bartering what is either an exhaust pipe or a sashweight for the pre-prohibition seidel of Walter Feltee. Clay Manville has a literal white elephant which he would dispose of for the decrepit cigar and the high hat which Vic Agnew sports.

Offer of Blood for His Victim Fails

Robert Howard, 28, of 1840 Rose street, last night offered his blood in an effort to save Dave Adams, 39, of 334 Dinwiddie street, whom Howard is charged with attacking last Tuesday.

Howard was taken from the county jail yesterday to the Passavant Hospital for examination, but his blood is not the kind needed to save Adams, hospital attendants say.

The men fought last Tuesday at Rose and Dinwiddie streets. Adams suffered a probable fracture of the skull and fractured cheek bones. At the hospital it was learned he was bleeding internally and a blood transfusion would be necessary to save his life.

Perjury?

JOHN S. BERGER

Berger, an exposition promoter of Chicago, snapped at Cincinnati just after his arrest on a charge of perjury in connection with his testimony in the Remus murder case.

WEATHER MAN IS WITNESS

Weather Forecaster William Z. Brotzman was summoned as a defense witness late yesterday in the trial of Vincenzo Ciccia and Oreste Delforte, of Clairton, charged with murder in connection with the death of Rocco Famia, who was shot early August 26, while washing his face in his home, rear of 5112 Lytle street, the shots being fired through a window. The shooting occurred about 5 a. m. The widow of the slain man had testified that she had looked through a window and had seen the defendants running away. Brotzman testified that at that hour, Eastern time it was dark as midnight. The trial closed yesterday and the case will go today to the jury. The defendants offered alibis as their defense.

TECH PROFESSOR NAMED CITY FLOOD ENGINEER

Harold A. Thomas, professor of hydraulics in the department of civil engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, has been appointed hydraulic engineer for the city of Pittsburgh to make a study of flood heights as affected by various proposed changes on the water fronts, it was announced today. His appointment was made by the Department of Public Works. His work for the city will be specifically concerned with a scientific study of flood heights in relation to re-location of bridge piers, re-location of boulevards along the fivers, and other construction changes recommended by the City Planning Commission and similar agencies.

MOVE HARDING BODIES DEC. 21

MARION, O., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The bodies of President Warren G. Harding and Mrs. Harding will be removed from the temporary vault in Marion Cemetery to the new $500,000 marble memorial Wednesday, December 21, it was announced here tonight by Hoke Donithas, chairman of the executive committee of the Harding Memorial Association.

National government representatives were notified of the service and it is expected that several prominent statesmen will attend the services being arranged in connection with the transfer of the bodies.

Relatives of President and Mrs. Harding are in charge of arrangements for the rites, which officials of the Harding Memorial Association say will be brief and of a semi-private nature.

Dedication of the tomb will probably be held in June.

REMUS' STEP-DAUGHTER GOES TO BURY FATHER

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 16.—Ruth Remus, central figure in the murder trial of her stepfather, George Remus, millionaire bootlegger, charged with slaying her mother, left Cincinnati yesterday for Milwaukee to attend the funeral of her father, Albert W. Holmes, according to dispatches here. Mr. Holmes, member of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Remus' first husband, died Wednesday night at a Wauwatosa (Wis.) hospital. Funeral services will be held Saturday.

POPE NAMES O'REILLY BISHOP OF SCRANTON

ROME, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Monsignor Thomas O'Reilly, rector of the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist, Cleveland, has been appointed bishop of Scranton by Pope Pius. The Rev. Edward Kelly of Baker, Idaho, has been appointed bishop of Boise, Idaho.

FORBES TO BARE PRISON DOPE TRAFFIC

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Reiterating his belief that efforts to stop narcotic traffic in prisons have proved unsuccessful, Col. Charles R. Forbes today declared he was ready to "tell all I know," to a federal grand jury here.

The former head of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who served 20 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., declined to reveal statistics he said he had to prove a certain percentage of prisoners at that institution were narcotic addicts.

"Warden T. B. White and other prison officials are making an effort to check the traffic and they are succeeding gradually," he said. "But they are handicapped by not having a sufficient personnel to prevent the entry of drugs.

"One would not think that a former convict would want to aid the government," he continued, "but I want to lend every assistance. The drug situation not only is serious in prisons, but everywhere else in the country."

80 HOMELESS IN ERIE FIRE

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 16.—A blow-torch used by tinsmiths and plumbers is believed to have caused the $80,000 conflagration at the St. Mary's Home for the Aged late Thursday, which rendered homeless 80 dwellers, a number of whom were blind and bedridden.

These all have been given temporary assistance at the neighbors' residences and the Soldiers and Sailors Home, while a dozen or more are suffering from shock at the Hamot and the St. Vincent's Hospitals. The interior of the building is a wreck.

Urge Group Donations To Twenty Neediest

Notwithstanding the numerous other demands that are made on their pocketbooks and the other appeals that are made to their hearts at this season, Pittsburghers are not forgetting the Twenty Neediest Cases of destitution for which The Sun-Telegraph is raising a Christmas fund. The total is slowly mounting. The contributions are still far below what they should be, however. There is need of more giving by groups.

Let every Sunday school class, every social club, every bowling league, every association of employes—every organization, in fine, in which good fellowship exists—take up a collection among its members for the benefit of the Twenty Neediest Cases, and enough would be raised to put them on their feet and gave them another chance to become self-supporting.

Suppose that at every bridge party, every dance, every basketball game, those in attendance should contribute their loose change for this very well worthwhile purpose—enough money would easily be available to lift the fearful burden of sorrow and anxiety from the hearts of the families who, without some such aid, face the possibility of being broken up, with the commitment of the children to orphanages and the sick and helpless parents to the poor house. It is to save the Twenty Neediest Cases from this crowning misfortune that the money is being solicited.

Let it be remembered that the purpose of this "drive" is not merely to furnish a good dinner to the needy families and playthings for their children on Christmas, but to put them on a solid financial foundation that will relieve them of hunger, cold and worry, until the breadwinner recovers from his sickness or gets a job, or some other happy turn comes in their fortunes.

The contributors to the fund would feel amply repaid if they knew how grateful the recipients of the relief would be. For the poor are grateful. Witness the following letter from a family that was aided by the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor:

"We are writing to thank you for your kindness to us through our illness. We just can't thank you enough for helping us so much while we could not help ourselves; for if it had not been for the help we got from you I don't know what we would have done. Our family send many thanks to you."

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sun Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is case No. 19:

Three rather squalid rooms house the Rs, of whom the grandmother is the only wage-earner. Their only son and his wife both died, leaving three small children to be supported. The grandfather has since suffered a stroke. Mrs. R is not as young as she used to be and finds it very difficult to feed three very small children. The Salvation Army has been doing its best to help until such time as the children can contribute to the income, which, at best, will be a few years yet.

(Reported by the Salvation Army.)

Case No. 20 will be described tomorrow.

Georgie and Ernest Brooks Discuss Their Affairs, Getting Nowhere

BUT you weren't willing to get a divorce, were you?"

"I couldn't."

"Oh, well! It doesn't much matter, does it?"

She thought he had not heard, until suddenly he drew the car up beside the boarding house.

"It matters a lot to me," he answered.

He had not tried to touch her. She was aware once more of his cleverness. "I was never in love with that woman, nor she with me—" he went on, "I hope you'll allow me to see you now I'm free."

Georgie gave him a cool, appraising glance.

"That depends."

"On what?"

She did not look back as she opened the door of the boarding house.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

IN less than three weeks Ann would be married. In less than three weeks all her doubts and worries and confusions would be swept away.

Ann had lost herself for a moment in the whirl of making preparations. Now and then ugly thoughts intruded, but she fought them back, refused to consider them.

To her at this period everything seemed unreal, and even people themselves mere shadows. She did not try to study Bill; she was afraid of what she might discover if she did. Blindly, driven only by her dominating will, she moved towards the goal of marriage. Somehow that, she felt, would solve everything, would make every issue clear.

Georgie had been so sweet and thoughtful to her these last few days. It was as if Georgie were the big sister, and she instead had become someone to be watched out for, guarded, advised, and taken care of. Ann's heart moved with feelings she could not express. And unhappiness gnawed at her unceasingly.

Her wedding dress was almost done. One evening after dinner, she found herself pinning up the hem. She was sitting in a kimona on the bed. Beside her in a heap lay the snowy white veil. She had placed papers on the floor, so that the dress itself, where it hung over her knees, could not possibly become soiled.

She ought to be happy and thrilled, she knew. This strange depression must end. She worked feverishly, trying to banish her doubts and fears.

But presently she stopped, went to the window and stared out at the quiet dark street.

She saw a car driving up to the house, and looked at it vaguely. Then all at once she rubbed her eyes, and her mind leapt to a startled attention.

Ernest was getting out of that car, carrying a long box.

Ann caught her breath. Was Georgie's new manner merely pretense? And hadn't she said that Ernest was out of the country?

She saw him come up the steps; heard the bell ring and saw him depart without the package. She was perplexed and troubled. But this time she would not wait, she would ask Georgie frankly for the truth. If the truth could not be between them, then indeed the world was a black place.

She was standing tensely as Georgie came into the room an hour later. She looked at her with searching eyes. Then she said:

"I was looking out of the window. I saw Ernest Brooks drive up."

Instinctively she braced herself as if expecting an attack, a sudden sharp statement of defense, or untruthful explanation.

But Georgie did not even look surprised. Her voice was very gentle.

"Did you? . . . Yes, Ernest's back again."

"But I thought you said . . ." Ann stammered whitely.

"Oh, I'm likely to say anything, of course. The fact is, his wife is dead."

"What does that mean, Georgie?"

"Nothing much except that he's asked if he can see me now and then."

And as if to end an unimportant discussion, Georgie crossed the room and looked down at the wedding dress.

But Ann stood helplessly. If Georgie had been defiant or had shown the least sign of annoyance, she would have known what to do. It was as if Georgie, after all, were somehow wiser about life than she had ever been.

In desperation she dropped the subject. Georgie was looking at the dress, saying little things, murmuring her admiration.

"It's lovely, isn't it?" Ann said. Her voice seemed forced and unnatural. There was a curious tension in the air. The old, happy comradeship between these two seemed gone forever, seemed replaced by a meaningless politeness that might have existed between acquaintances.

For the first time Georgie noticed the long box which Ann had put in a corner.

"What's that?" she asked.

"Oh, that?" Ann stammered—"Mr. Brooks brought it."

Georgie stared at the box, saw the name of one of the smart, expensive shops, broke the string and lifted the cover.

Before her eyes was a gorgeous negligee. She held it up for Ann to see. Neither girl spoke and as silently as she had taken it out she put it back and replaced the cover.

"Slip on the wedding gown, Ann. I'll fix that hem for you," Georgie told her.

Ann complied. But as she stood there her lips quivered pitifully. Georgie was kneeling, pinning up the hem. Then Ann could not go on. A cry of pain burst from her. She sank down on the floor, forgetful of everything, crushing the veil to her, sobbing like a child.

Georgie's arm was around her shoulders.

"Ann, darling, what's the matter—tell me what's the matter?"

"That box. I can't let that man give you things like that."

Georgie's face was white. "What does it matter? I wouldn't marry him—if he wants to make love to me—"

"No, no! You don't understand!" Ann sobbed. "I know you love Bill—don't tell me anything else. I've been horrible. Because—because, you see, Bill still loves you. I'm only in the way. I've known it all along. I couldn't marry him now for anything in the world. He loves you. He doesn't love me."

Georgie's eyes were wide. "But, Ann," she said in a whisper, "you love him—you love him!"

"Do I? I'm not even sure of that. I'm not sure of anything any more, except that you and Bill belong to each other."

Then Georgie began to cry. She began to cry helplessly, and it was Ann who comforted her, who drew her into her arms, touched her hair, tried to soothe her, as she had tried to soothe her once, long ago, when Georgie had been a little girl and wept over a broken doll.

"Don't cry, darling. Don't cry," Ann whispered.

But Georgie still wept. She wept now with happiness.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

ANN had 'phoned for Bill. The seriousness in her voice had made him ask:

"What's the matter. What's happened?"

"I'll tell you when you get here," she had said. Ann had sat down to wait. She felt calmer, more peaceful than she had been for weeks. Almost she felt happy. Certainly the sadness that moved in her was not of that bitter, preying sort that had mastered her before.

She could even read, and follow with attention, a story in the magazine she had picked up. Half an hour passed before she heard a ring at the front door and knew it was Bill.

He came in looking worried and alarmed. "Why did you want me to come over right away? Has something happened—something important?"

"Something terribly important."

He moved towards her, but he did not try to take her into his arms, he did not try to kiss her. She was glad of that.

"Well, what is it?"

"Bill, maybe I'm all wrong about you. But I think you're big enough to understand. I'm going to talk to you about Georgie."

"Oh, about her. What's she done?"

"Nothing, except to realize that she loves you."

"Loves me?" He had turned towards her incredulously. There was a little trembling smile on his mouth. He stammered something; Ann scarcely heard him.

"Yes, she loves you, Bill. But that isn't the only thing; I've realized something still more important. I've realized you love her."

Then he changed color, caught her penetrating glance, looked away, looked back, looked away again.

"Oh, that's . . . well, I mean . . ."

"Bill, you and I have got to be honest now. You never really loved me. I just made you propose to me that was all. But you never loved me—not really loved me. You never could, Bill!"

"See here, Ann, what are you talking about? I told you—"

"I know what you told me, Bill. But you see, I'm not so sure now that I, myself, love you!"

The shot told. He winced, and a new note came into his voice.

"I wish you'd told me that before."

"I'm telling you now. It's time enough."

"You really mean you don't love me?"

"Not the way Georgie does, I guess. And you love Georgie about 10 times as much as you love me."

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"Well, my dear, I'm comPLETEly BAFfled and nonPLUSSED at this point—I ACtually AM, because it's simply no USE trying to psychoANalyze NOIsy, my dear, because you simply CAN'T draw him OUT or anything. I mean I'm SIMply SUNK about it because he would have been the MOST intriguing SUBject to sort of PRACtice all these strange PSYching iDEAS on because I mean when you get someone who is simply DYing to confIDE all their THOUGHTS and iDEAS and things to you it is TERRibly exciting to be a psychoANalyst because just THINK of all the odd THINGS you sort of find OUT about people, do you know what I mean? Fr instance I have actually reduced MOTHer to a PULP by getting her to confIDE all her eMOtions and things to me and then looking them UP in this odd BOOK on psychoanALysis and telling her the WORST. I mean she's SIMply FRANTic about it because she says she doesn't beLIEVE a WORD of it but of course she DOES, my dear, and I've actually had MORE darn FUN sort of TORturing her—can you BEAR it, my dear? Well, ANYways, I'm starting IN to psychoanalyze ARab at this point only I'm not going to let ON to him about it because he's so darn cagey, my dear, he wouldn't tell me a THING if he knew I was PSYching him but I bet you ANYthing it will be a CINCH to get him to litrally POUR out his SOUL to me—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen is Informed of Miss Lincoln's Stage Ambitions.

MY apprehensive mental question concerning the time and place of Philip Veritzen's next conference with me over the work we had not finished upon the inn balcony remained vexingly with me through the little flurry of our departure from the inn and the first few miles of our journey cityward.

There was but one thing I could do, however, and that was to fortify myself with the old proverb about crossing bridges. Indeed, Mr. Veritzen, himself, gave me no chance for reflection. As if the subject had a fascination for him which drew him back to it, we had traveled but a few miles before he began to speak again of the Lincolns, of whom I had talked to him and to Lillian upon our journey up to the inn, and during the dinner.

"This Miss Lincoln," he said meditatively, "must be a very unusual young woman, from your description. Indeed, I have quite a vivid mental picture of her. I really should like to see her in order to find out how true to life your word picture is."

"She would like to see you," I stressed the pronoun strongly, with a reminiscent little smile. "She is as stagestruck a young woman as it ever has been my luck to encounter, and she evidently believes that it needs only a nod of your head to make any girl a theatrical star."

"She isn't so far wrong on that," Lillian interposed, with an impudent grin at her old friend, "only, of course, the nod doesn't come until Phil is worn out from teaching, and the girl almost dead from the rigid routine of work he maps out for her."

I knew that beneath her banter there was a deliberate reference to Mary Harrison. She did not wholly approve of Mary, but she shared my indignant belief that the rigorous discipline Philip Veritzen had imposed upon the girl had been responsible in part for her escapade as the masked dancer.

Mr. Veritzen frowned. "I never select a girl for a dramatic career," he said stiffly, "unless I am satisfied that she can stand the discipline. If she breaks down it is always due to some outside distraction of her own which, added to her work, makes her burden too heavy."

There was something in his tone, or so I imagined, which made me long to glance at Lillian, but at the same time made me afraid to do so. Was it possible that he suspected — Lillian's bantering voice cut my conjectures short.

"Come down from the roost, old gobbler," she said laughingly.

Unexpectedly, he laughed. He patently shared the conviction of all Lillian Underwood's friends that it is utterly futile to get angry at her for the audacious things she says or her absolute lack of deference to dignity. I knew that she would as blithely "rag" a bishop or a diplomat if she thought him too pompous as she would puncture the pretensions of some cheap strutting egoist.

"I am perfectly aware of that last fact, my dear," he said. "I have felt its sharp edge too many times." But, turning to me, "Tell me more about this young woman who has a longing for a stage career. Has she met my young cub yet? Is he the young man of whom you spoke when we were driving up, the one on whom she had 'fixed a glittering eye?'"

Two Oldtime Favorites Back At Fox Studio—Former Cowboy Hero Is Latest One to Return

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.

THE Fox Company has a rather interesting manner of relying on old favorites. William Farnum returned to the Fox fold after a long absence and now William Russell is domiciled there for an indefinite period.

In the old days Mr. Russell was Fox's cowboy hero. Then he wandered to the other studios, engaged in outside business and forgot his Western career. A few weeks ago when Victor McLaglen was rushed into another picture and a leading man was needed for "Woman Wise" the former cowboy was sent fo. and given the part.

Now he has signed to play opposite Virginia Valli in "The Escape," Paul Armstrong's play. Years and years ago when movies were still in their swaddling cloth, D. W. Griffith produced "The Escape" with a cast of the famous old Biograph Players. Richard Rosson will handle the megaphone in the up-to-date version.

Nils Asther is one of the foreign actors who has made good in Hollywood. Most of them come over here and get their chance, but not all of them are permanently successful. Yesterday, United Artists exercised their option on young Asther's services and 10 minutes later, by the clock, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer called up and borrowed him for the second lead in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh." This will be the second time that the Swedish actor has worked in a Herbert Brenon picture, the first being "Sorrell and Son." There is a little surprise that Lionel Barrymore wasn't cast in the role he created on the stage, but since it is the type of thing that Lon Chaney enjoys it was given to him. How Mr. Chaney does love to suffer and how he does revel in unrequited love!

"Sunrise" continues to delight the motion picture colony. King Vidor very frankly said that he considered it the best picture he has ever seen. The same graceful compliment was paid F. W. Murnau, the director of "Sunrise," by Lois Weber, proving that jealousy in the film business is largely a matter of imagination. I overheard a conversation that inclines me to believe that Janet Gaynor, who did such excellent work in the first Murnau picture, will have the ingenue lead in "Four Devils." Mary Duncan has the vamp role and Miss Gaynor will play a modern young woman in the story which is laid in France. There is no chance that she will wear a blonde wig again, news that will relieve her friends.

Rainy Day. Unusual weather for Hollywood, but nice for a change, even if it means wading through mud at some of the studios. Winfield Sheehan, wearing a smart raincoat and walking in the rain to the Fox studio; Gladys Brockwell made up as one of the Chinese girls, who vamps Victor McLaglen in "A Girl in Every Port;" Madge Bellamy in a flapperish outfit and Mary Duncan chatting with Johnny Mack Brown on one of the Fox sets, is the panorama that passed my eyes while I was searching for news. All of Hollywood is shopping and not giving much thought to anything but Christmas. At the Montmartre, the models who wear smart clothes at the Wednesday luncheon, gave some of the luncheon guests ideas of what they want for Christmas. I know two motion picture husbands who will get gentle suggestions. Jack Mulhall at the Montmartre, lunching with his wife, won't need any second-hand hints.

At the time Universal cast Ward Crane in "Fallen Angels," opposite Norman Kerry, everyone wondered. They are so much alike and so much the same type it seemed rather an extraordinary thing to do. Apparently after the tests were made, they realized themselves it was a faux pas. Now, Mr. Crane has withdrawn from the cast.

That amazing woman, Nellie Revell, is always doing the unexpected. A few months ago, she was out in Hollywood being entertained by the film people and writing snappy stories. Now she's in Chicago, appointed by Joseph M. Schenck as publicity and advertising manager of the new United Artists Theater in my erstwhile town. "The Dove," starring Norma Talmadge and directed by Roland West, opens in Chicago Christmas night, so Nellie had to get on the job pronto.

Looks to me as if the film people will be largely represented in Europe the early part of this year. Patsy Ruth Miller has crossed her fingers and sent a fervent prayer heavenward that nothing will interfere with her sailing from New York February 18. She has her reservations on that day. She is sailing with some friends of her family and expects to be gone eight weeks. Meanwhile, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Miller, will keep the home fires burning until she returns. The Ted Brownings will also be in Europe, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thalberg and a number of other Hollywood people. As someone remarked—if the hegira continues there won't be enough people left to get a good table of bridge.

Nice Day, Isn't It?

LARRY KENT and Sally O'Neil are out for a ride in this scene from "The Loveloorn," based on the serial now appearing in The Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers, and which comes to the screen soon. We know the weather is fair because of Larry's straw hat, even if Sally's face is kind of wistful.

Seventy Airplanes To Be Seen in Photoplay

The 40 airplanes (18 Fokker models, 12 French ships and 10 British Sopwith planes), in which Greta Nissen, James Hall, Ben Lyon, Louis Wolheim and others will fly all over "God's heab'n" in "Hell's Angels," new Caddo film, have arrived at Clover Field, Santa Monica, Cal. They are now being reconditioned at hangars at Glendale, Cal.

Howard Hughes, the young producer of "Two Arabian Knights," has rented 30 United States Government ships for atmosphere, making a total of 70 aircrafts to be flown in "Hell's Angels." J. B. Alexander, former vice president and general manager of the Los Angeles-San Diego Air Line, has been placed in charge of the movie air squadron.

Mr. Hughes announced yesterday through United Artists that he has abandoned his initial plan to film air scenes of "Hell's Angels" at one of the established flying fields in Southern California, and that instead these air sequences will be photographed in the air—cameramen, with parachutes on their backs, flying in other machines.

Thriller Remains And Operetta Returns

In "Rose-Marie" that we have seen on former occasions and which returns to the Alvin for one week only, beginning Monday evening, December 18, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, there is a blend of pretty nearly everything from grand opera to vaudeville; melodrama included—in the making of this show. One novelty is a husky he-man chorus with voices as robust as their physiques, a departure from the usual style of male chorister.

"Wooden Kimono," the latest of mystery thrillers, by John Floyd, will be held over by the management of the Nixon for a second and last week, beginning Monday night, December 19, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

A feature of the Keith-Albee vaudeville program booked for the Davis next week is Mayo and Lynn, comedians. On the screen will be "The Life of Riley," with Charlie Murray and George Sidney.

Young Star Playing In Three Films At Same Time

Prior to being engaged to portray one of the three brothers in "Beau Geste," Ralph Forbes was on a holiday, so to speak. Of course, Ralph enjoyed a certain amount of stage prestige. But he gazed wistfully toward the American cinema and the plump salaries it offered.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer called him into the fold, following critics' praise for his characterization in "Beau Geste." Ralph played more or less steadily thereafter. Today, however, sees him a semi-social outcast and a study recluse.

Forbes is playing in three pictures simultaneously at present. He is in "The Trail of '98." He is being groomed in a war yarn, starring the canine, Flash. And in his spare time he heroes in a comedy drama with Norma Shearer.

CAPPER ASKS 5 MILLION MORE FOR RIVER BILLS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—An additional appropriation of $5,000,000 for the general rivers and harbors bill that the development of the Upper Missouri River for navigation may be rushed next year was recommended to President Coolidge yesterday by Senator Arthur Capper. The estimates sent to Congress by President Coolidge allow $65,000,000 for rivers and harbors projects.

Misses' Dresses

$25.00

Anyone who wears a misses' size should see this gala collection of new silk dresses, selected primarily for the college girls who are home for the holidays.

The fabrics are crepe de chine, flat crepe, georgette, chiffon and novelty crepes. In subtle variations of beige, red, blue, green and rose, and black and navy as well.

The styles are principally those suited to grace all kinds of afternoon affairs—some quite plain, others varying through all degrees of fluffiness to a pleated and frilled chiffon suitable for an informal evening dance.

The details are full of fashion significance . . . asymmetrical lines, unusual pleatings, flaring inserts, rhinestone ornaments.

$65.00 $95.00

By taking advantage of the new prices now effective on women's coats, one may have a smart wrap, distinctively of the present season, to wear during the holidays and for three or four months thereafter. And since these are straight line coats, there is every reason to suppose that they will survive another season.

There are coats of lustrous pile fabrics, and of smooth materials dull and lustrous. Those at $65.00 have mushroom collars and cuffs of fox, skunk, dyed wolf and kit fox. Those at $95.00 have shawl or mushroom collars and cuffs of beaver, wolf, squirrel, badger, kit fox and skunk.

Most of the coats are black, although several shades of brown and beige are included.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debutantes of This Season Being Kept More Busy Than Spectators at a Three Ring Circus

EVEN though there are social affairs of all kinds planned for every day throughout the holiday fortnight, still new plans are being announced daily. And one becomes more and more convinced that the debutante of this season has more things to watch at one time than a spectator at a fascinating, three-ring circus.

With the evenings of the holiday time taken up, and the afternoons for that matter, luncheons are figuring in the plans of hostesses. Mrs. Wilson Kennedy Ray, of Washington, and Mrs. Charles Howard Johnston, Jr., will entertain with a buffet luncheon on December 27 in honor of Virginia Louise Johnston, debutante daughter of the Charles Howard Johnstons. The party will be held in the home of the honor guest on Beechwood boulevard. The luncheon will follow a rehearsal many of the guests will have attended for the charity ball to be held that evening in the William Penn Hotel.

Mrs. Ray was formerly Elizabeth Close Johnston, sister of the honor guest, you will recall. Mrs. Ray is arriving in the city today to be the guest of her parents. And the junior Mrs. Johnston is, of course, Virginia's young sister-in-law.

It is interesting to note how many of the buds this season came out at tea dances instead of the legendary formal tea. The older set will come to teas, but the young things must have their dancing.

Being aware of this fondness of the younger generation for dancing, the Thomas Fitzgeralds will present their daughter Frances to society at a tea dance in the University Club the afternoon of December 22.

Mrs. Fitzgerald will have as her aides Mrs. Lee Holmes Marshall, Mrs. T. Coleman Ward, Mrs. George Ladd, Mrs. Frederick C. Baird, Mrs. Walter Stockly, Mrs. J. C. Patterson, Mrs. John Boyd McKown and Mrs. Herman R. Blickle.

The debutante will have as her aides Anne Louise Marshall, Florence Wainwright, Florence Carroll, Margaret Brainard, Lucy Ward, Eunice De Puy, Elizabeth Nicholson, all sister buds, and Caroline Gilchrist, of Sewickley, and Elizabeth Christy.

Mrs. Francis Perry Browning, of Maysville, Ky., will receive with her mother and sister, it is expected, Mrs. Browning, before her marriage, in the fall, was, you remember, Elizabeth Kettlewell Fitzgerald. Mary Selden, who came out two seasons ago in Washington, and her mother, Mrs. Charles Selden, will be in the city for Frances' debut if possible. Mrs. Selden is Mrs. Fitzgerald's sister.

Mrs. Walter Cockrill Carroll, mother of the popular bud, Florence Carroll, arranged a bridge luncheon given yesterday afternoon in the Carroll home on College avenue in honor of her older daughter, Mary Edith Carroll, who came out in Chicago a season or so ago. Ten tables of bridge were in play during the afternoon. At the luncheon a profusion of dark red roses and ferns was used in decorating.

* * *

Thomas Mellon entertained at a dinner last evening in the Pittsburgh Golf Club in honor of his debutante cousin, Mary Mellon McClung, daughter of the junior Samuel Alfred McClungs. There were covers for 75. Dancing, of course, followed the dinner.

* * *

Mrs. Frank E. Rutan and her daughters, Martha and Elizabeth, have returned to Sewickley from Philadelphia and will remain here during the holiday season and the first week of January.

CHAIRMAN FOR BENEFIT

Mrs. Charles L. Peirce, Jr., is chairman of the patroness committee for the benefit Girl Scout tea dance Monday in the Hotel Schenley.

MRS. CHARLES L. PEIRCE, JR.

Mrs. Rutan and Martha will give a tea-dance in the Allegheny Country Club from 4 to 7 o'clock Saturday afternoon to present Elizabeth to society.

Betty Wells, of Philadelphia, who will receive with the Rutans at the tea, arrived in the city this morning.

Mrs. Rutan will have as her aides Mrs. James B. Umstaetter, Mrs. John B. Semple, Mrs. William Lloyd, Mrs. James B. Oliver, Mrs. Henry Oliver, Mrs. William Jackson Crittenden, Mrs. George Hubbard Clapp, Mrs. Elmore A. Willets, Mrs. John Joy Edson, Mrs. George E. McCague, Mrs. Frank R. Drave, Mrs. Clarence P. Byrnes, Mrs. John S. George, Mrs. William D. George, Mrs. George E. Tener, Miss Ann Semple, Mrs. Theodore W. Nevin, Mrs. Charles F. Holdship, Mrs. C. I. Shannon, Mrs. J. F. Byers, Mrs. F. F. Brooks, Mrs. Carol Davis, Mrs. James C. Chaplin, Mrs. James E. Brown, Mrs. Frank E. Richardson and Mrs. John L. Wigton.

Among those assisting the debutante will be Mary R. Oliver, Harriet Nourse Ramsburg, Marie Boggs McBride, Margaret McCready, Mary Childs, Mary Mellon McClung, Mary Louise Johnson, Anne Scott and Elizabeth George.

An interesting event of today is the costume recital being given by Mrs. Wilson Alexander Campbell and Miss Margaret Campbell, of Sewickley, in the Allegheny Country Club. Folk songs of the Danube and Vistula were sung by Miss Patricia Macdonald, with Everett Tutchings as accompanist. The songs were collected in Rumania, Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia and Poland.

The Harry Austin Deuels, of the Schenley apartments, today announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to the Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, of Milwaukee, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rubel, of Bridgewater, L. I. The wedding is to take place during the holidays. Dorothy was graduated from Washington Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., and attended the Carnegie Tech drama school later. She has appeared in several New York productions, mostly with her sister, who is now Mrs. Andrew Lawrence Riker, Jr., of Fairfield, Conn. Mr. Rubel was graduated from Wisconsin University in 1923 and from the General Theological Seminary, New York, in 1926.

Mr. and Mrs. Riker are expected here to spend the holidays with the Deuels and Mrs. Riker will be her sister's attendant.

A bridge party was given yesterday by Miss Margaret Walker of Carnegie to announce the engagement of Miss Marion Elizabeth Bickell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bickell of Carnegie, to Lyle Cunningham Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hughes of New Castle. There were 16 guests. Miss Bickel attended the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music, and Mr. Hughes is a Carnegie Tech man, class of 1926. He is a member of the Theta Xi fraternity. No wedding date has been set.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Virginia Margaret Davies, daughter of Mrs. Sarah J. Davies and the late Thomas W. Davies, of Nobles Lane, Carrick, and Frank F. Rhodes, son of Mrs. Emma F. Rhodes and the late David C. Rhodes, of California avenue, North Side, which was solemnized December 1 by the Rev. Alexander Gibson, pastor of the McKinley Park Presbyterian Church. Miss Beatrice Davies and Wilbur Rhodes were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes will live in Carrick.

HOBBIES OF MEMBERS FORM CLUB PROGRAM

Again the hobbies of Epoch Club members have furnished a program of unusual interest, for yesterday Mrs. Thomas L. Painter told in most fascinating manner of her hobby under the title of "Wanderlust." Mrs. Painter has traveled all over the world, but her paper gave little concerning travels. Indeed, it was devoted almost entirely to various trips the speaker had made from Williamsport to the Jersey shore. No thrill on an ocean liner, she said, has ever equaled that experience on her first trip, which was made on a packet boat drawn by mules and consumed one day in the making. The same trip has been made in various other ways since, she said, and the last one was by airplane and took but 15 minutes, flying both directions.

Another paper, delightfully chatty in its content, was on Christmas carols, old and new and was by Mrs. Phillip N. Harrison. Mrs. Harrison traced the development of carols and illustrated her talk with some beautifully played piano numbers. To conclude the program, Mrs. C. C. Burgess reviewed Sandburg's "Life of Abraham Lincoln." The program committee for next year was chosen and includes Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Frank D. Newbury and Mrs. Jens G. L. Schreuder. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Frederick W. Winter, Beechwood boulevard, and was supplemented by the tea hour.

A program of impressive beauty was given yesterday afternoon at the Twentieth Century Club. Consisting of a series of tableaux, representing Christmas in many lands, it began with a representation of the Bethlehem Manger, showing the Holy Family and two Archangels. The coloring and lighting effects in this, as in all of the tableaux posed, was exquisite. The Nativity picture was followed by a series of three representing King Olaf of Scandinavia and his courtiers choosing between the hammer of Thor and the cross of Christ.

For France there were scenes in a convent school where the young girls were making garments for a poor child in honor of the Infant Savior, the latter scene showing the presentation of their gifts. Germany's Christmas custom of revealing the Christmas tree was realistically done and of particular beauty were the Dickens pictures of the Cratchit family and the American Christmas, in which Red Cross posters were brought to life.

One of the most appealing figures in the pictures was that posed by little Charlotte Anne Steffey as "Tiny Tim." Mrs. William Booth was the Madonna, Mrs. Carl Warmcastle was King Olaf, Mrs. C. F. C. Arensberg and Mrs. Jacob Payton were the older Cratchits, Mrs. Wilmer Jacoby appeared as the nun in the French series and Mrs. Alvan W. Sherrill and Mrs. T. C. Clifford were prominent in the German scenes, while Mrs. Sidney Hammond was "The Greatest Mother of All."

The fresh young voices of children from the Madison School were heard in Christmas carols and the auditorium was fittingly decorated for the season. Mrs. Haines Allen Machesney and Mrs. Albert M. Pettit had the tremendous work of posing the pictures.

The League of American Penwomen held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon in the Woman's City Club. Mrs. Annette Thackwell Johnson read one of her own plays, "Coli," a vivid story of India in four acts. At the business meeting three new members were admitted to the league, Marian Valensi, whose name is familiar as a writer of short stories; Mrs. Frank T. Wray, a well-known newspaper woman, and Elinore Cowan Stone, whose latest novel, "The Laughingest Lady," was recently published.

Its first literary luncheon of the season also served as the Christmas celebration for the Outlook Alliance yesterday in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Anna Marshall McCracken, of the fine arts department, Carnegie Institute, was the speaker and her subject, "Christmas in Pictures, Song and Story," one which she has used before many other clubs and always with effect. By means of slides (reproductions of famous paintings), and appropriate Scripture readings, Mrs. McCracken told the Christmas story, while the musical setting was furnished by a quartet of singers, Mrs. Mary Rhodes McBride, Mrs. Mae B. Colledge, Mrs. James H. Baird and Mrs. T. H. Gray. Children from the Curtis Home also joined in the singing and were later honor guests at a party. There was a Christmas tree from which Santa Claus distributed the gifts. Mrs. E. H. Heyser, chairman of literature, was assisted by Mrs. John Colclough, chairman of hospitality, and Mrs. W. A. Thompson, chairman of the Curtis Home Auxiliary of the Alliance.

The International Institute, an organization of more than 100 women representing 19 different nationalities, will hold its annual Christmas party at Central Y. W. C. A. tonight. The auditorium will be decorated with Christmas greens and candles for the occasion. The program, in addition to distribution of gifts from a small Christmas tree, will be featured by an "angel" chorus carrying candles in procession in the darkened room. Each of the guests is to bring a tiny red Christmas stocking filled with pennies, in return for gifts of the year. Christmas and winter games will complete the evening's entertainment, the chairman for which is Miss Katherine Lawless.

Dramatic interpretations of Dickens' works were presented by William Sterling Battis last night at a meeting of the Woman's Club of Aspinwall, at which the husbands and friends of the members were their guests. The program, which was arranged by Mrs. J. B. Henry, also included two Italian folk songs by Mrs. George Robie, soprano.

Mrs. Archibald Silverman, of Providence, R. I., national vice president of Hadassah, who is in Pittsburgh to participate in the celebration of Hadassah Sabbath, will be the speaker at the regular Hadassah meeting Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. and Y. H. A. Mrs. Dora L. Steinberg will sing, accompanied by A. Litow. Mrs. Silverman will speak at the Tree of Life Synagogue tonight and at a tea in the B'nai Israel community house tomorrow afternoon.

The Hampton Township Parent-Teacher Association will be assisted by the ministers of the community in sponsoring the township's Christmas celebration. A tree will be placed on the grounds of the Wildwood Presbyterian Church and around it a program will be carried out next Thursday night. In case of bad weather the program will be postponed until Monday night, December 26.

PENN'A GIRL, 18, FOR SALE AS BRIDE, PRICE $10,000

NEEDS MONEY TO AID FAMILY; MUST BE TALL

By International News Service.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Dec. 16.—Wanted—A man, tall, honest and with $10,000.

This is the strange request of an attractive 18-year-old girl of this city who is willing to sell herself in marriage to obtain money for her mother's long-needed operation and her sister's musical education.

The girl, Mary K. Graser, hopes her wish will be fulfilled before Christmas. Mary promises to do anything to make her husband happy.

Besides her mother's and sister's needs, Mary intends to furnish her eight brothers and father with a new home through the money.

"I saw the picture of another Pennsylvania girl who was willing to sell herself for $9,000," Mary explained in making her announcement. "If she could get that much money I ought to have no trouble in getting $10,000," she added.

"PEEPING TOM" SUSPECT NABBED AT GREENVILLE

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 16.—John Lucas, 17, is under arrest suspected by police of being the "Peeping Tom," who has been annoying residents of a suburb, Greenville, by looking through their windows at inconvenient times.

BENTLEYSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 16.—Boys playing on the McCloskey farm in Fallowfield township found a large copper tank concealed in underbrush. Police later found a 250-gallon still.

Zoo Troubles Bob Up To Vex Council

Regardless of any opinion that might be held by Rudyard Kipling, the male of the species is more deadly than the female—at least as far as elephants are concerned.

That was the opinion expressed by Ernest F. Tretow of the Highland Park Zoo when nine members of Council, discussing the budget, turned their attention from bridges and sewers to lions, tigers and pythons.

"The Humane Society is complaining and threatening to prosecute us because we keep Glory chained," said Tretow.

"Who is Glory—that cow that Jim Malone sent to the Zoo?" asked Councilman Robert Garland.

"No—no—no, Glory is an elephant—our elephant."

"What is the matter with him?" asked John S. Herron.

"It isn't a him. It is a her," said Tretow. "We couldn't have a male elephant. They are too wild. Circuses get rid of their male elephants."

It developed that Glory, a 9-year-old beauty of an untold number of pounds, or possibly tons, was chained because she, too, is just a little bit wild—or "playful," as Tretow put it. It seems that Glory has a playful disposition that causes her, when unchained, to coyly touch the visitors to the Zoo with her trunk. The touch, backed by untold pounds of muscle and vim, occasionally causes the visitors to turn backward handsprings.

"She is a little quieter since her playmates have arrived," said Tretow.

These playmates, it developed, are Lindy, aged 5, and Ruth, aged 2, both of the weaker (if such a term can be used for elephants) sex. However, it has been thought safer to keep Glory chained, a procedure objected to by the Humane Society.

Three fates face Glory, the hearing developed. First, she can be kept chained. Second, she can be sold down the river like Uncle Tom. Third, she can be provided with a new enclosure, part inside and part out.

Judging from what Tretow said, there will be little difference between the inside and outside enclosure unless Council comes across with some money. The Zoo roof leaks and the heating system is not good. It would cost $20,000 to fix these things, he added.

Complaints that the bear cages were unsanitary and that the buffaloes were dirty were brought to Tretow's attention. Bears, it seemed, were naturally unsanitary, not having been well brought up. Buffaloes, too, were not well brought up, having a habit of shedding their hides in the summer when visitors are most numerous and of rolling occasionally in the muddy enclosure.

Tretow was with Hagenbeck for more than 10 years and expressed the opinion that not even the people who complain could teach the polar bears to bathe every day, the brown bears to "police" their quarters in approved army style and the buffaloes to take a daily shower.

"We keep everything as clean and sanitary as possible," he said.

EAST END BOY, INJURED BY AUTO, IS RECOVERING

Louis Hill, 10, of 217 North Aiken avenue, is recovering in the Homeopathic Hospital from injuries suffered Monday night when he was struck by an automobile at Baum boulevard and Morewood avenue. He suffered lacerations of his head and legs and a cut on his face. Harry Seigel, 5812 Margaretta street, driver of the car, hailed a passing automobile and sent the boy to the hospital. Seigel was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

JURY GETS WHITLATCH CASE TONIGHT

STATE GETS IN DAMAGING EVIDENCE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 16.—The fate of Mrs. Ina L. Whitlatch, charged with the murder of her husband, will be in the hands of the jury before night. When court reconvened after the noon recess only the charge of Judge R. L. Hildebrand remained to be delivered. Arguments by opposing counsel were made this morning.

Through rebuttal witnesses presented after the defense of Mrs. Whitlatch had been concluded, the commonwealth succeeded finally in its attempt to produce testimony tending to show that Mrs. Whitlatch was unfaithful to her husband and had gone out on various occasions late at night with strange men. The object was to establish a motive for the murder.

With the testimony of the rebuttal witnesses completed, Attorney Orville Brown, of the defense counsel presented the last points.

Witnesses called for the defense during the afternoon were Mrs. R. C. Rineberger, Alderman H. G. Coates, Dorothy Whitlatch, 16, daughter of the defendant and the slain man; Myrtle Lastrako, Mrs. Conrad Rapp, Mrs. Ida Hines, and the defendant.

Mrs. Rineberger testified to having heard Whitlatch cursing his wife and also to having knowledge of his mistreating her. She stated that she had never heard Mrs. Whitlatch reply in vile language to her husband. Alderman Coates told of Mrs. Whitlatch's making an information before him against her husband and of his having made a counter charge. Both being assault and battery. The trouble had been because supper was late, as he remembered it.

Dorothy Whitlatch testified that her father had called her mother names, beaten her and put her out of the house. Myrtle Lastako told of Whitlatch's putting his wife out of their home and calling his wife vile names. Mrs. Rapp and others testified along the same lines.

Art Rich, first of the rebuttal witnesses, told of having Mrs. Whitlatch and her daughter Lillian in his car with another fellow. He claimed to have had them out three or four times. The other man, he said, was Steve Gotcosky. Nick Cavalier was called and admitted having been for a ride with Mrs. Whitlatch and her daughter. Herchell Seward told of having met Mrs. Whitlatch and her daughter and having made a date with Mrs. Whitlatch.

Who's Who in Auto License Plates Made Public

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's own semi-official "Who's Who," the list of those granted the first 100 automobile license plates, was made public today.

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, heads the list of private citizens, with license number 5. Gov. John S. Fisher was given number 1, as customary.

Places on the list of the "first hundred" are highly coveted. It is generally conceded on Capitol Hill that when a Pennsylvanian succeeds in "cracking the list" he has "arrived," politically speaking, in this state.

All present state officials drew low numbers for their private cars, and a number of former state officials also were among those listed.

Senator-elect William S. Vare drew No. 86, while Senator David A. Reed drew No. 94. Mrs. W. Harry Baker, widow of the late secretary of the Senate, drew No. 100.

FLOOD HALTS FUNERAL PARTY, BODY REMOVED

CAMBRIDGE, O., Dec. 16.—A funeral party was caught by the flood yesterday while en route to the cemetery at Senecaville. The body was removed from the hearse and carried to high land to avoid the rapidly rising water. It was finally transported to Senecaville by train.

POLITICAL WAR IN OKLAHOMA LULLS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 16.—A lull in Oklahoma's political warfare was perceptible today as a result of the Christmas recess taken by the self-convened Legislature.

Most members of the Senate had scattered to their homes after voting to adjourn until December 28 to permit Gov. Henry S. Johnston, Chief Justice Fred Branson, of the State Supreme Court, and Harry Cordell, president of the State Board of Agriculture, 15 days in which to file answers to impeachment charges voted by the lower House and submitted to the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment.

An attempt by the Senate to settle the question of legality of its sessions ended yesterday when the Criminal Court of Appeals denied an application for a writ of habeas corpus for E. B. Lewis, held in contempt of the Senate.

Lewis, induced by anti-administration leaders to bring a test case, was held in contempt and fined $100 for smoking in the Senate chamber. The Criminal Court justices dismissed the habeas corpus application, declaring they would not permit the court to be used as a "tool."

DEFINES NEED OF VOTE MACHINE AMENDMENT

J. Howard Devlin, counsel for State Senator Frank J. Harris, sponsor for the voting machine measure, on which the citizens of Pennsylvania will pass at the next general election, issued a statement today, at the Senator's suggestion, explaining why it will be necessary to amend the Constitution before these devices can be lawfully used at Pennsylvania elections.

Mr. Devlin said in part:

"Neither the Constitution of the United States nor the various legislative enactments of Congress have anything whatever to do with suffrage and elections in Pennsylvania. These are matters which are solely in the hands of the people of Pennsylvania, and they, through the Constitution of 1874 and the various acts of Assembly adopted since then, have provided how elections shall be conducted.

"The Constitution of Pennsylvania, in section VI, deals with the fundamentals of suffrage and election; it does not attempt to particularize or to explain in detail how elections shall be conducted, but it does set down the bold background which must be adhered to in all the ramifications which election legislation takes. For instance, it is there stated that one of the qualifications of an elector is that he shall have been a resident of the state for one year. This requirement is an essential one, and our Legislature at Harrisburg cannot infringe on it unless the Constitution is amended.

"So, likewise, article 8, section VII, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania states: 'All laws regulating the holding of elections by the citizens, or for the registration of electors, shall be uniform throughout the state, but laws regulating and requiring the registration of electors may be enacted to apply to cities only, provided that such laws be uniform for cities of the same class.' This is the particular section of the Constitution that the resolution presented by the late Senator John P. Harris in the special session of 1926, and again by his brother, Senator Frank J. Harris, at the last session of the Legislature, contemplates amending, and it is only through this amendment that the people of this state can hope to have voting machines.

"The people of the state must first amend the Constitution in order to open the way for the Legislature to enact the necessary legislation for installing voting machines. If our Legislature, without this amendment, were to pass an act giving the various municipalities and election districts the right to accept or reject a certain plan of voting, including voting machines, such an act would be promptly declared unconstitutional by the first court to whose attention it was brought, as being in violation of the uniformity clause of article 8, section VII, of the Constitution.

"It follows then that if the citizens of Pennsylvania desire to install voting machines, and if this installation is to be left optional with the voters of the various election districts and entities, it will be necessary to amend the Constitution, so that the section providing for uniformity of elections shall not be violated.

"It must not be construed that by virtue of this change in the Constitution it will be possible for the Legislature to change, abridge or alter in any way any of the fundamental principles and safeguards which our forefathers have so wisely attached to the right of suffrage and right of voting. This amendment is solely for the purpose of enabling the various electoral entities to decide whether or not the community shall establish a different method of casting and computing the ballots of its citizens."

SHOCKED BY SUFFERING, PASTORS TO AID MINERS

ALL SECTS JOIN IN MAPPING RELIEF

Shocked by reports of suffering in communities of striking coal miners of the Pittsburgh district, a group of clergymen of all denominations, Protestants, Catholics and Jews, met at luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce today to consider the situation. The move has been inspired by the Federal Council of Churches, whose executive secretary of research and education, Dr. F. Ernest Johnson of New York, has spent much time in Pittsburgh lately, visiting the mining camps and talking to the miners and the operators.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph H. Urmy, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church and chairman of the social service commission of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches of Christ, has also been investigating the miners' plight, and made an informal report at the meeting.

At the same time that the churches have taken steps to relieve the suffering, the lay agencies of social service have been moving in the same direction. A central committee has been formed of some of the executive officers of the charitable organizations of Pittsburgh, who are serving on the committee, however, not as representatives of the societies of which they are officers, but in an independent capacity.

The present plan is for the ministers' organization to raise funds for the miners' relief through the churches, and for the central committee of social service workers to administer the relief.

Pittsburghers can give immediate aid to the sufferers in the mining communities by donating clothing, which should be deposited in fire engine houses for collection on Bundle Day, next Tuesday. Persons living in the boroughs who desire to contribute bundles and who cannot conveniently bring them to Pittsburgh fire engine houses should communicate with the headquarters of the United Mine Workers in the Columbia Building, Fourth avenue and Wood street—telephone, Court 2572. The union has made arrangements in some of the boroughs for the collection of clothing and will inform inquirers what to do.

How urgent the need of relief is is indicated by two cases selected at random. A visitor at the union headquarters asked a miner in the waiting room, M. F. Carroll of Coverdale, how things were in his community.

"Very bad," was the answer. "We have to vacate the company houses by Tuesday, and are putting up barracks. There are some big families in the community, and it is going to cause a lot of discomfort. I came to town to see if I couldn't do something for a woman in the camp who is momentarily expecting a visit from the stork. There are seven children in the family already. Her husband was hurt in the mine 16 months ago and has earned nothing since. They are in the worst possible shape to welcome a new baby. There is scarcely a stitch of clean linen in the house. They don't even have enough bed clothes."

Another miner standing nearby, Smiley Chatak of Harmarville, was then questioned concerning the situation there.

"We are being evicted from the company houses today," he said, "and as the barracks that the union has been putting up are hardly ready for occupancy yet, it is causing a great deal of hardship. There is a lot of sickness, and there is going to be more; for it is bad business to move people who are half-starved, and with nothing but rags for clothing, when it is wet and cold. People can easily get pneumonia when things are like that.

"A girl came to me today and said her father and mother were both sick in bed, yet they had been told they would have to move. The Coal and Iron Police, who are attending to the evictions, have no pity. It makes no difference to them if the people are sick. The girl didn't know what to do, and neither did I. Well, there was nothing that we could do but move them to the barracks. So we carried the man and his wife—his name is Joe Lebreski—to the barracks and laid them on the floor. There was no stove there, not a stick of furniture, nothing. The roof has not been put on yet. There are just the boards, and the rain leaks through. We covered Joe and his woman up with bed clothes as well as we could, and left them. What else was there that we could do?

"It's pretty bad. There are about 200 families in the camp, and they are nearly all down and out. The company—the Consumers Mining Company of Wheeling, W. Va.—has evicted us from the houses, although it has no other use for the houses, and they are standing empty, and many families are crowded into the barracks. In some cases young men and young women with their fathers and mothers all sleep in the same room. It is no uncommon thing for six persons of both sexes to sleep in one room. I could mention worse things. It isn't right. But what can we do about it?" And he shrugged his shoulders.

One thing that the people of the Pittsburgh district can do is to provide clothing and provisions on Bundle Day. All kinds of discarded garments, if serviceable, will be welcomed. Shoes for children are especially desired.

Relief stations for the miners have been opened in other cities, but it is upon Pittsburgh that the principal reliance is placed. Pittsburgh is able to take care of its own, in the opinion of some observers.

Colston E. Warne, assistant professor of economics in the University of Pittsburgh, who has been studying the situation, says, in a report just published, that outside agencies must assist.

"The relief now given," he states, "will not buy adequate food for the families, to say nothing of clothing and other necessities. Numerous trips to the barracks reveal deplorable conditions. Thousands of children have been withdrawn from school because of the prevailing poverty."

Without delay the people of Pittsburgh who pity suffering humanity and who have contributed so generously to the relief of the victims of oppression in the Near East will ransack their closets, trunks and wardrobes and gather up bundles for the miners' families.

TIPSY HUSBAND WHEELED HOME, WIFE DECLARES

Mrs. John Blekach, of Bridgeville, told Judge Harry H. Rowand in divorce court that her husband was brought home intoxicated one night in a wheelbarrow. JURY TO HEAR PART OF REMUS SANITY REPORT

Only Two Paragraphs Allowed by Court

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 17.—Only two paragraphs of the 4,500-word report of the three court alienists, who found that George Remus was sane at the time he shot and killed his wife, Imogene, last October, will read to the jury, Judge Chester R. Hook ruled today.

These paragraphs will inform the jury the alienists made a "very exhaustive" study of Remus, as well as his family, and that they "unanimously" found him sane at the time of the murder.

Remus' defense has been "transitory maniacal insanity." He claims he was temporarily insane when he killed his wife. He expressed regret that the report of the alienists was not allowed to go to the jury in full.

Commission Puts Stop To Radio Shifts

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Determined to prevent a scramble of the channel clearing plans already put into effect, the Federal Radio Commission today announced that no more changes of power and frequency will be authorized until February 1.

"Many transfers will become effective then and many other stations will be refused new licenses under the plan to reduce their number by about 300.

From week to week the commission has been passing upon a number of individual applications for better wave lengths and more power or time. This will be stopped to avoid complicating the coming shakeup and permit "full trial" of precent assignments.

The February 1 assignments will not be changed, once made, except upon showing by broadcasters at public hearings that the changes will improve the setup, it was announced.

At least some of the Pacific Coast changes will be deferred to March 1, being embodied in supplemental orders to be made public on February 15.

RAIDER MISSING, DROP CHARGES

DENNISON, O., Dec. 16.—Because J. P. Moran, alleged state prohibition officer, who helped police conduct liquor raids last Monday, disappeared, none of the four defendants will have to appear before Mayor S. M. Mahaffey on charges of possessing beer and wine.

Final Rush Changing Bird House Totals

An influx of last-minute New Reader subscriptions last night and this morning changed the aspect of many totals, as the girls and boys of the Sun-Tele Bird House Club found themselves with only one more day to send in their blanks to get in on the prize awards.

For tomorrow, December 17, is the last day. Those received in the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph tomorrow will be counted in the total. Those that are late, while they will be given the usual 50-cent bonus, will not be counted in on the additional prize awards.

The counting starts tomorrow evening. J. M. Aylward, manager of the Bird House Club, hopes that he will get the full number in the contest tomorrow morning, so that he can start the final tabulation as soon as possible.

The ending of the 28 cash prize awards will not end the New Reader sales campaign, however. Every subscription will be marked down and the seller will receive his 50 cents. So, regardless of the money prizes, the bonus is still good indefinitely.

Take the dread out of cold-weather starting

ATLANTIC winter gasoline

TEMPERATURE changes are one of the greatest enemies with which a motor fuel has to contend. It takes an easy-starting gasoline to rouse your engine on cold, wintry days.

Atlantic would no more think of offering you the same gasoline in winter as in summer than you would think of wearing the same weight clothing throughout the year.

Although Atlantic winter gasoline is basically the same as the famous Atlantic which built up such a remarkable record of performance last summer, its volatility has been increased — to make quick, smooth starting in icy weather a certainty.

It vaporizes instantly at chilling temperatures—catches the spark and warms your motor up in a jiffy. Yet it is carefully balanced for complete, uniform combustion. . . . And packed with power for hills, speed and traffic!

Use Atlantic winter-formula gasoline and forget all about cold-weather starting worries. All Atlantic pumps and service stations have it.

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 19[illegible] — THIRTY-NINE

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

EVEN though Manager Bush did not succed in his efforts to put through a deal or two while the major basebal leagues were in session in New York this week, the roster of the Pittsburgh club has been changed consilerably since the close of the 1927 season.

A glance over the crew discloses that five men have been bt go already, and that another has been placed on the ineligible list.

The five Buccaneers who have departed are Outfielder Hazen Cuyler, Pitchers Emil Yde and Mike Cvengros and Catchers Ray Spencer and Ike Danning. The heligible pastimer, who must be grated reinstatement by Commissioner Landis before working anywhere in organized baseball, or before the Pittsburgh club can dispose of him, is Pitcher Johnny Morrison.

PITTSBURGH know four players below the legl limit, having a total of 36 eligiblemen. The roster as revised up to dte follows:

Catchers—Earl Smith, Johnny Gooch, Claude Linto, Ralston Hemsley.

Pitchers—Remy Kremer, Carmen Hill, John Miljus, Le Meadows, Vic Aldridge, Ralph (Joe Dawson, Walter Tauscher, Leste Bartholomew, Fred Fussell, Georgi Peery, Erwin Brame, James Lindsa, Lee Roy Mahaffey, Glenn Spencer, Charles Walsh. Of these, Fussell, Peer and Bartholomew are lefthanders.

Infielders—Harold Tayner, Glenn Wright, George Grantham, Earl Adams, Joe Harris, Jo Cronin, Richard Bartell, Harold Rhyne, Willis Windle, Goerge Gottlieb.

Outfielders—Paul Waer, Lloyd Waner, Clyde Barnhart, Adam Comorosky, Floyd Scott, Hrman Layne, Fred Brickell.

Coaches—Oscar Stanag, Jewel Ens.

Voluntarily retired—Fst Baseman Everett Barnes, Catcher James Mattox and Outfielders Water Mueller, Howard Lohr.

Ineligible—Pitcher Jonny Morrison, Catcher William Heffner.

Division of eligible players—Catchers, 4; pitchers, 15; infielders, 10; outfielders 7. Grand tota exclusive of manager and coaches, 3.

WHILE the many frieds whom Charley Langlois has won here during his connection with he Pittsburgh hockey club regret he departure for sentimental reasns, and wish him the best of luck inhis new environment, there is no question in the minds of local ice fans hat the Pittsburgh team has been stengthened by the trade which sends Lang-

Chapman Sets Back Arrival

RED CHAPMAN of Boston is due in town tomorrow for his eight-round main bout with Tommy Crowley of the South Side in Motor Square Garden Monday night.

It will be a grand and glorious homecoming for Red, whose folks live in Homestead. Red as a youngster sold newspapers and flowers on the downtown streets and then moved on to Boston and became a championship contender in the featherweight class. This will be his first chance to show his wares in the Motor Square ring.

Chapman originally was scheduled to arrive today, but had to postpone his departure from Boston.

Joey Glick figures to win the junior lightweight title in his return bout with Tod Morgan in Madison Square Garden tonight and Newsboy Brown ought to defeat Corp. Izzy Schwartz in their battle on the same card, which has been sanctioned as a flyweight championship match by the New York Commission. Morgan defeated Glick last year, but apparently has slipped since then. Brown rates high above Schwartz among the little fellows. Both matches will be over the 15-round route.

Chick Suggs, New England's classy little Negro fighter, boxes at Erie tonight, meeting Johnny Ryan, formerly of Boston, but now of Erie, in the 10-round main bout. Johnny Carey of Erie boxes Jimmy Mason of Cleve-

PANTHERS HOPE TO WALLOP MAROON

By Special Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Coach Red Carlson and his pack of Golden Panthers were jubilant at the Windermere Hotel this morning after treating the University of Michigan's touted champion Big Ten quintet to a decisve 49 to 39 defeat in Ann Arbor last night. "Chicago is next" was Carlson's only comment on his team's impressive victory last night and if the Panthers play as they did against the Wolverines no Big Ten outfit is going to stop them on this four-game invasion of a country that used to think it had unbeatable basketball teams.

The play of Capt. Sykes Reed, Stanley Wrobleski and Chipper Charley Hyatt was so impressive the 10,000 Michiganders who packed the Yost Field House to the gunwales shrieked in awe.

CHAMPS LOOK BAD

Hyatt and Wrobleski dribbled away from the Michigan guards time after time to slip in easy baskets. The Big Ten champs of last season looked anything but that last night.

Chicago has a veteran team, but that doesn't mean a thing to Carlson's cigers and they were in a confident mood today as they awaited their second Western Conference opponent as many days.

The Panthers, with their clever dribblingand accurate shooting, made the Wolverines look as bad as they did when they walloped them in Pittsburgh last season. Michigan's guards were totally unable to stop Stash Wobleskie and Steaks Hyatt when they wanted to get loose. The floor game of the Panthers was far superior to that of Michigan, and their passing much more accurate.

RALLY BRINGS VICTORY

Pitt had to come from behind in the second half to win, but they did so with such a vengeance that they easily wipe out the 2-point advantage held by the Wolverines in the first half.

Hyatt, Wobleskie and Reed each

MANCHESTER SWIM CHAMPS

One hundred and twenty-five grade school swimmers, qualifiers in the five district championship meets, and representing 25 schools, fought it out to a finish for individual and school honors yesterday afternoon in the Fifth Avenue High School pool. The occasion was the eighth annual public grade school city championship swimming meet conducted by the department of hygiene, Harry B. Burns, M. D., director.

Manchester, with a well-balanced team, scored in every event but one and easily walked away with the meet by winning both relays and a total of 35 points. Beacon of Soho School was the high individual scorer with 13 out of a possible 15 points. He won second place for his school. Twelve other schools figured in the scoring, as follows: Forbes 11, Washington 10, Bedford and Troy Hill 5 each, H. C. Frick and McNaugher 4 each, Esplen, Allen, Homewood, Fulton, Linden and McKelvy 2 points each.

MORGAN IS FAVORED TO DEFEAT GLICK

By FRED KEATS,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Tod Morgan, of Seattle, the junior lightweight champ, will defend his title against Joe Glick, of Brooklyn, and Izzy Schwartz will try to show up Newsboy Brown, one of the numerous aspirants for the flyweight title at Madison Square Garden tonight. Both battles are slated for 15 rounds.

Morgan is a favorite in the betting at 7 to 5 although he has not been going so good lately. On several occasions, the champ has been forced to brush rosin dust from his fighting trunks.

Glick has been stepping lively of late and now is at the top of his form. Probably the main reason the price-makers did not make him the favorite is that they remember what Morgan did to Joe last winter. At that time Glick looked like the coming champ, having finished in front of Honeyboy Finnegan and the veteran Johnny Dundee.

Joe was all set to grab the Seattle boy's title, when something went wrong. He forgot to duck one of Morgan's right-handers and found himself on the canvas with the count approaching 10. Joe got up all right and finished well.

The flyweight scrap should go a long way toward clearing up the complicated situation that resulted from the retirement of Fidel La Barba.

The California commission has appointed Johnny McCoy as the man to take La Barba's place. Next Monday night Frenchie Belanger, of Toronto battles Ernie Jarvis of England, in the former's home town and the National Boxing Association is prepared to recognize the winner as its champion.

The local boxing commission believes that the honors should go to the winner of tonight's fight.

SOMERMAN PASSERS PROTEST GAME

By JULIUS LEVIN.

SERIOUS eruptions centering about two top-notch players, Yans Wallace and George Ramsay, who were with the Morry team last year and were to be part and parcel of the Cycler Club of McKeesport, which was barred from the Allegheny County League because it was adjudged too strong for the circuit, today threatened the disruption of both the Allegheny Ohio Valley loops.

Phil Gentille, a former Ameritz Club star, is a third player involved in the latest controversy in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League.

The Siano Club of the P. & O. League last night presented Wallace and Gentille in its lineup against the Sumer Somerman Club in a league game despite the fact that the rules require registration of new players for seven days before they are eligible to compete in the league.

GAME IS PROTESTED

The Somermans took advantage of their prerogative to protest the contest and, unless their objection is sustained, they, as well as two others, likely will withdraw from the league, in which event the loop hardly will be able to finish the season.

The manager of the Somermans contends that neither he nor any other club in the league was notified that either Wallace or Gentille was registered by the Sianos and their presence in the Siano lineup was not made known until game time last night.

The same peculiar situation prevails in the Allegheny County League. The McKeesport Cyclers were voted out of the league because the team was believed to be too strong for that circuit. The main purpose in taking this action was to give Broadway club the services of the same Yans Wallace and Moon Klinzing, placing

Big Loops Adamant On Draft

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Moving in all directions, the big and little baseball men of the country today are missing from the metropolis as they speed for their various homes. For the past four days the major and minor league folks have pepped up the hotel life of New York as they held their annual meetings, but the vast lobbies were almost totally barren of magnates and players this morning.

But the last day of the session saw the major leaguers throw down the gauntlet to the little fellows. The minors have been complaining about the draft regulations which have been in effect for the past seven years. These were drawn up shortly after Judge Landis went into office and at that time it was believed that they would bring peace and accord to the interested parties. Of late, however, the minors have threatened to jump over the traces.

So the majors yesterday with more or less solemnity told the minors to go ahead and "jump." In other words, they stated that if the junior boys wished to terminate the draft agreement in January, the majors would not try hard to restrain them. The big fellows, however, let it be known that they wished to continue the agreement but that the whole matter was up to the minors.

In the event that the minors should make good their threat, baseball would show open hostilities. In effect, the two bodies would practically sever relations and operate independently of each other. The results of such a condition are hard to visualize, but there would be plenty of excitement.

But the higher ups of the game left

Landis' Income From Baseball To Be Cut

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—The income of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis will be cut next year by the action of the joint committee of the major leagues in voting to reduce the share of the office of the baseball commissioner in the world series from 15 per cent out of the gross receipts to 10 per cent. Out of the 10 per cent, the salary of Commissioner Landis and all expenses connected with his office must be paid.

In making the reduction, it was pointed out that the greater receipts due to larger perks and higher prices made the lesser amount sufficient for carrying on the work accomplished by Commissioner Landis.

CARRICK-BURNS BATTLE SHIFTED TO WEST VIEW

Grid Season Ends When the Last All-America Team Is Picked

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

JESS CARVER'S VARSITY COLUMN

THE superiority of Eastern collegiate basketball over Western was again demonstrated last night at Ann Arbor when Pitt's fine team stowed away Michigan by a 49-39 score to start it's Western invasion that has three more games to go.

Last year, Michigan, Big Ten champs, came here to Pittsburgh and was trounced by a 13-point margin. It was expected that the Wolverines, with a veteran team, would secure revenge by "taking" Pitt last night, but all they could do was stay within 10 points of Dr. H. C. Carlson's team by taking long shots whenever Pitt permitted them to hold the ball.

IF the Panthers were a wee bit stronger at center, they would be unbeatable. They have Hyatt, Wrobleskie, Reed and Cohen, as fine a quartet of college basketball players as will be found on ANY team. Doc Carlson has changed his style of play this year, does not use the back court to the extent he has in past years and has a much faster squad with which to work.

DISPLEASED with the showing of his varsity squad in practice, Coach Chick Davies of the Dukes, has sent Eddie Losman back to the center position, Colledi and Silverstein to forward, and Ganzy Benedict and Jack Rosenberg to guard. Capt. Jerry Reich was injured painfully last Wednesday and was kept out of yesterday's workout.

PEABODY, OLIVER GIRLS WIN LEAGUE GAMES

Peabody High School nosed out Allderdice, 27 to 26, Westinghouse and Fifth Avenue battled to a 15-all tie, and Oliver set down Gladstone, 21 to 11, in the girl's senior high school basketball league yesterday.

Today Schenley and Fifth Avenue, Peabody and Westinghouse, Oliver and South Hills, and Carrick and Allegheny play.

Crack Teams Meet Sunday

By TOM BIRKS.

WHAT is classed as the independent gridiron classic of the season will be played at West View Sunday when the undefeated Burns A. A. of New Kensington and the Carrick Odds, unbeaten in local play, clash for the district sandlot football crown.

Although neither eleven has been defeated, ties mar both records. A victory for either will give that team undisputed possession of the title. The game was scheduled originally for tomorrow at New Kensington, but was shifted to West View when it was found that no suitable playing field would be available at New Kensington.

On Sunday the Klinzing outfit will have a tougher proposition to face than it had against the Parkers.

Another real battle tomorrow will see the McChesneytown gridders in action against the Ryans of Hazelwood. One thing that will be settled in this game is the ball-carrying ability of Sonny O'Neil as opposed to Johnson, classed as the best fullback in the district. Manager Otto Mathos stated last evening that Sonny is ready to go in tomorrow's battle at Latrobe and his efforts against Johnson and McGinnis will be watched with interest.

Manager Mathos is winding up the season like a whirlwind, thus proving the Ryans were no flash in the pan. On Sunday the Hazelwood lads will make a trip to McKeesport to meet the Crimson. Gridiron fans in the Tube City have been clamoring for one of the clubs to bring the Ryans to McKeesport since the proposed game against the Olympics on Thanksgiving Day fell through.

These games probably will ring down the curtain on the sandlot activities in the district.

Manager Freddie Iverson of McKeesport Olympics and Max Rosskamp of Springdale got together during the week and signed a contract for the Olympics to meet the Amicus at Springdale Sunday.

Hagen Given Week to Raise Money for Club

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, national professional golf champion, and John Ganzel, former first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, yesterday were granted an additional week in which to raise enough funds to complete their purchase of the Rochester International League club.

Meeting in special session, the league granted the request of Hagen and Ganzel for more time to raise the $6,000 which remains to be paid for the franchise. Part payment of $25,000 has been made already. The league authorized President John Conway Toole to confer with the two new prospective owners in Rochester a week from today, when final payment on the franchise will be due.

Montreal, which replaces Jersey City, was formally welcomed into the league. President Toole announced that the Montreal club had completed its organization and had plans for a $700,000 stadium.

that team in a position to obtain a berth in the County League.

At the time this action was taken it was agreed by the managers present that no other club in the league was to benefit by the decision, yet the Duquesne Lafayettes, last year's champions and without doubt the best club in the circuit at the present time, were permitted to sign George Ramsay, the greatest center playing professional basketball hereabbouts and the outstanding star of the Morrys last winter. Ramsay's addition to the Lafayettes has made that club wellnight unbeatable, as its record to date shows. The addition of Ramsay has made the Lafayettes stronger than the Cyclers would have been had they been permitted to retain their franchise.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Last night a special meeting was held by the Allegheny County League to thrash out protests, but nothing was said concerning the strengthening of the Lafayettes.

Francis (Lefty) Saunders, manager of the McKeesport Cyclers, is the innocent victim of the controversy. Saunders made elaborate preparations for the opening of the County League in the Tube City, but was informed when the league was about to open that he would have to break up his combination or withdraw. He took the latter course.

With big league veterans being thus used to pad lineups of light first-class teams, basketball appears to be bordering on the breaking point in this section.

The new Pirate is expected to arrive in time to take part in tomorrow night's game against Chicago at Duquesne Garden. He will be sent into the starting lineup probably paired with Rog Smith.

While the departure of Langlois is regretted, every man on the local club is pleased with the newcomer. Burke showed them in the recent setto in Montreal that he knew how to handle himself on the steel blades. He dumped more than one Pirate and was a big factor in his team's defeating the Bucs 4 to 0. Marty also has been a big factor in keeping Les Canadiens at the top of the standing in the Canadian section of the N. H. L. He should be a tower of strength in the local lineup, as well as a popular member of the cast.

President Townsend and Manager Cleghorn still are scouting for a new center man. If a high-class pivot player can be corralled then the Freebooters will have a contender for a money berth in the American group.

Duke Keats, the Detroit player, traded yesterday to Chicago for Gordon Fraser, was offered the Pirates for Hib Milks, but it was the opinion of Manager Cleghorn that he would weaken his club further in letting Milks go for the veteran Cougar.

CHICAGO BUYS KEATS

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(U.P.)—The Chicago Blackhawks have announced the purchase of Duke Keats, star forward of the Detroit Cougars hockey team of the National Professional Hockey League. Gordon Fraser, a forward, and $5,000 were given for Keats.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—What's become of Babe Ruth? Well, folks, yesterday the Bambino played 18 holes of golf with Col. Bozeman Bulger of the New York World. And he shot an even 80. The Colonel was enraptured by the exuberance of the big fellow as soon as he reached the links.

BULGER is a member of the Cold Stream Country Club, a layout on Long Island. Instead of mixing around the hotel lobbies, Ruth hied himself to the links for exercise, and according to Bulger, Babe could not restrain himself.

"AFTER we had finished," mused Bulger, "Babe had an old ball that he wanted to bear down on. He walloped it and after it landed he sprinted out to where it fell. Babe is nine pounds lighter than he was in the playing season and his whole physical being is remarkable. And maybe he can't wallop a golf ball!"

JOE DUGAN, fielding sensation in the recent World series, was one of the few American League stars who showed up at National League headquarters. Dugan and John McGraw have been friends for some time and Dugan came over to the Waldorf to see the leader of the Giants. Joe played a Pie Traynor role last October, if you remember rightly. His play of a bunted ball at Forbes Field was just about the greatest achievement of the series.

"HOW are you going to get your name in the papers with those two dudes on the same club with you?" chuckled Dugan as he went into a eulogy of Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Dugan paid a tribute to the skill and personalities of the "fence busters." He is very fond of both.

THIS writer was fortunate enough to see one fight and one show, and in each case one was sufficient. No, you're wrong. The bout was the greatest I ever saw, and I left Madison Square Garden with the feeling that Jim Slattery had earned a draw with Tommy Loughran. Anyhow, as George Stallings remarked, "It was a great sight just to see the well-conditioned boys stripped for action."

THE theater treat consisted of one of the best dishes George Cohan has ever served. Few musical comedies of the past were as good as "The Merry Malones," with Cohan playing an important role. It's a gem.

Harvard Teams Hold Edge Over Yale

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—John A. Blanchard, Harvard '31, today came forward with an article in the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, seeking to refute "a feeling which seems to have arisen that Harvard has for a long time more or less filled the role of an athletic doormat for Yale teams in all forms of sport."

Taking as a basis for his review Harvard-Yale athletic relations from 1908 to 1927, Blanchard discovered that of Harvard-Yale championships in the five major sports during this period, Harvard has won 47 and Yale 43.

Harvard has a slight lead in minor sports.

In contests since 1875, when athletic relations began, Yale leads in every major sport except hockey.

ILLINOIS END TURNS PRO AS A BOXER

URBANA, Ill., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Les Mariner, of Chicago, end candidate on the University of Illinois football team for three years, has decided to turn professional, as a boxer. He is six feet tall and weighs about 190 pounds.

GIBBONS BEATEN BY RAY FAY

Ray Fay, Charleoi light-heavyweight, punched Dick Gibbons of McKeesport to the floor four times in a 10-round bout at the Palisades Rink, McKeesport last night, but was unable to keep him there, winning the verdict at the close of the contest.

The bout, the feature of the evening's card, was hard fought, with Gibbons winning th approval of the fans by his show of gameness. He managed to get to his feet each time Fay dropped him and was fighting hard at the finish, hough badly outclassed.

Fay knocked him down in the second round twice on counts of nine and in the seventh again sent him to the floor while the referee tolled nine. Fay weighed 178 pounds against 195 for his opponent.

In the semi-final, Jack Bany won a close decision from K. O. Ferry in a strenuous eight-round affair. Both fighters were all marked at the finish of the mi.

Jackie Rodges, Negro flyweight battler, beat Ry Schauers of the North Side in te second bout, which was stopped by the referee in the fifth round.

Ed Gibbons, rother of Dick, evened up matters fro a family standpoint when he kayoed Ray Braun of Pittsburgh in the second round of the scheduled fourround opening bout. He dropped Braun in the first round for a short count and finished him off in the second.

turned to protest and was clipped on the chin with a left hook in the seventh round.

Now Dempsey is yelping bloody murder about his alleged shabby treatment when he boxed Gene Tunney in their return bout in Chicago. He complains of the referee's count, the referee's handling of the bout from the start, says he knew he wouldn't get a square deal the moment he saw Dave Barry come into the ring, protests because of an alleged mixup over bandages in the dressing room, and about being called into the ring before Tunney.

It's a funny world.

WALLY STEFFEN, veteran coach of the Carnegie Tech football squad, says there is no doubt that a mistake was made in the ruling that deprived Southern California of a safety count of two points in its 7-6 defeat by Notre Dame at Chicago recently. And Schommer, the official who made the decision, is Wally's brother-in-law!

I asked Steffen, who witnessed the game, for his version of the play when he was here recently for the annual Carnegie Tech football banquet, and he said a blunder unquestionably had been made, but he absolved Umpire Schommer of responsibility for it. Schommer admitted he was not in a position to see the debatable phase of the play, which had to do with whether or not the forward pass which rolled into the end zone was momentarily held by the receiver, a Notre Dame man, and says he asked the field judge about it, and the latter told him the receiver did not have possession of the ball, whereupon Schommer ruled the play a touchback.

Steffen said the player caught the ball and started to run with it and was tackled almost immediately, whereupon the oval plopped out of his arms. He added that Schommer still is waiting for Morley Drury, the Southern California captain, who squawked about the play when he got back home, to come out in the open and vindicate him, for he says Drury heard the field judge say the ball was not under control.

"NOT that the play made any great difference in the ultimate result," Steffen said. "I am convinced that Notre Dame was the better team and would have come from behind to win if the safety had been allowed. Notre Dame merely played it safe after gaining the lead. If necessary, Coach Rockne's men would have opened up with plenty of passing and other strong offensive stuff and figured to win anyway.

"Mistakes such as this one occur in every game. I never witness a game that I do not see some decisions in which I do not concur, but they are all part of the game. The officials must make their decisions on the spur of the moment and cannot hesitate. They are only human and are bound to boot one now and then, just as the players make mistakes at critical moments. On the Notre Dame-California play, for instance, there were four officials, and, as it developed later, none of them was sure of just what happened in that fleeting moment of excitement. If the game had not been close the incident speedily would have been forgotten. In the light of the tight finish, however, it became a matter of paramount importance."

RED CHAPMAN, former downtown newsie and flower seller, whose folks live in Homestead and who has risen to the top as a boxer since he moved to Boston some years ago, makes his first local appearance in the ring at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. His coming is awaited with great interest. He boxes Tommy Crowley of the South Side, the leader in his class in this section.

I am reminded of a meeting with Chapman in the lobby of one of the New York hotels the day after the Dempsey-Sharkey fight last summer. Chapman had come down with the rest of the Boston population to see Sharkey fight Dempsey. I asked him if he thought Sharkey had been fouled.

"I don't know," he replied. "From where I was sitting I couldn't see any low blows. Sharkey's reputation for yelling foul in other bouts is against him and I suppose he'll have a hard time making the fans believe he was struck low this time. It's the old story of the boy who yelled 'wolf' once too often."

I GATHERED from further conversation with Chapman that he, like most Bostonians at the time, was a booster for Jim Maloney. Maloney was popular with the fans of the Hub and Sharkey wasn't, because of his boastfulness. Sharkey knocked out Jim in their last meeting, in New York, and got the Dempsey elimination fight. Half or more of the Boston fans who made the trip for the latter bout wanted to see Sharkey beaten, because he had crushed their idol. And they were mightily pleased with the outcome.

AMATEUR PUGS SHOW CLASS

It was newcomers' night at the Y. M. H. A. last night, when a list of unknowns battled their way tore cognition in the amateur boxing show staged by the association. Several well-known amateurs were given strenuous sessions by the up and coming ringmen who were their opponents.

Bob Smoller of the North Side had a tough time getting the verdict over Lou Schnitzer of Broughton in one of the best bouts on the card. Schnitzer boxed cleverly and proved to be a rugged hitter.

A. McDowell of Clairton was beaten by William Marches of the Kingsley House in a 160-pound class bout.

The summary:

REISELT RETAINS TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Turning back his latest challenger, Allen Hall, of St. Louis, in decisive fashion, Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, continues to wear the world's three-cushion billiard crown. The challenger made a gallant uphill fight in his 200-point match with Reiselt, which ended last night, but fell short. Starting the fourth block 42 points behind, Hall took the last two blocks of the match to bring his total up to 781 to 200 for the champion.

WILL BE HOT MATCH

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—When Welker Cochran defends his 18.2 balkline title against Jake Schaefer at the Hotel Pennsylvania in a 1,500-point match starting next Monday night a heated table will be used to prevent the balls from being chilled.

HOCKEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Montreal Canadiens were setting the pace in the National Hockey League today with a three-point advantage over the New Yorg Rangers, who top the standing of the American group with 15.

A 2-to-1 victory for the Canadiens over the Maroons last night boosted the total points for the Canadiens to 18. The Ottawa Senators upset the New York Americans by 4 goals to 1, thereby taking sole possession of second place in the international fold with 12 points. The Americans, Maroons and Maple Leafs are tied for third in the standing with 10 markers a piece.

Flashing a speedy attack directed by Aurie, the Detroit Cougars humbled the Rangers by 2 goals to 1. Aurie counted twice for the victors.

SHAMOKIN GETS STEFFEN

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Dewey (Duke) Steffen, captain and left fielder of the Harrisburg Senators, New York-Pennsylvania League champions last season, has been traded to Shamokin for Pitcher Duke Schessler.

Old Rivals Await Start

By JULIUS LEVIN.

FIRST place in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League will be at stake tonight when the undefeated J. J. Mieles, last year's champions, oppose the crack Goldensons of the South Side at Columbus Temple.

The Mieles have scored five impressive league victories to date, while the Goldensons lost their first contest to St. Catherines and then registered four successive triumphs.

This contest brings together two of the strongest clubs enrolled in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League, and if they both play up to their usual standard their respective followers should witness a nip-and-tuck battle tonight.

Interest in the game has been high all week and indications point to a capacity turnout at Columbus Temple. The game marks the first time the two teams have met since 1925, when a riot broke up a contest between the Mieles and the Goslins, the latter club being composed of the present Goldenson players.

A victory for the Mieles tonight virtually assures them of the first-half championship in the P. & O. League, as they would have to beat only the Somermans and the McKeesport Junkers to make it a clean sweep.

While the Miele-Goldenson game is attracting the major portion of attention tonight, the Siano Club plays the B. L. Succops at the South Side Market House.

Beechview will make its debut in the Allegheny County League tonight when the Braddock American Legion team invades Broadway Club to meet Mickey Gross and his supporting cast. Gross has lined up a strong team to represent Broadway Club and has made preparations to handle a big turnout of fans.

The P. J. McBride Juniors of Rankin and the Swissvale Celtics have arranged a game for the Swissvale floor for next Tuesday night. Junior teams desiring games are asked to write James Bonacci, 210 Fleet street, Rankin, or call Braddock 2730.

The Jordan club of the South Side wants games with first-class junior teams. For games write Walter Bennett, 2518 Leticoe street.

lois to Les Canadiens in exchange for Burke, clever defense man.

Langlois could not get going here this season and has not been able to attain his best form, where as Burke, on the other hand, is a player of recognized ability and has been putting up a fine game for Les Canadiens.

THE only reason why Les Canadiens were willing to make the trade under the circumstances was that they desire to make their team an all-French sextet and are confident that in new surroundings Langlois will find himself again.

The Dominion club is said to have offered a big cash price for Langlois, but the local management turned it down and demanded a player in exchange, Burke finally being agreed upon.

THERE is a side agreement to the deal which gives Pittsburgh first right to Langlois for next season if Les Canadiens do not desire to keep him, and gives Les Canadiens first claim on Burke if Pittsburgh does not desire his services after the present campaign.

Don't be surprised if another Pittsburgh trade recently reported fails to go through. That is the proposed swap of Arbour for McCaffery. It is understood that such a hitch has developed in the negotiations that the deal probably will be called off and that Arbour will remain with the Pirates.

IN trying to change himself from a boxer into a fighter when he found Jimmy Slattery outboxing him the other night, Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion, demonstrated again that he lacks a punch. On the surface he appeared to be doing pretty well at the rip-and-tear style of going, but that Slattery had not been hurt by his blows was shown by the manner in which Jimmy whieled at the title-holder in the last two rounds.

Loughran's friends contend that his failure to hurt Slattery when he hit him squarely on the chin with a long sweeping right-hander, and with his entire body thrown into the wallop, was due to the fact that his feet had left the floor and that he was actually in the air when the punch landed.

THIS contention that a fighter's feet have to be "set" on the floor to give him the necessary leverage for a knockout brings denials from some veteran boxing men. Ed Hughes for one, recalls that Joe Walcott leaped clear of the floor, to reach the chin of Joe Chevnski, and did the same against George Gardner for knockouts.

He adds that only a few years ago Sid Terris delivered a whizzing knockout in mid-air on the jaw of Andy Chaney.

land, Jack Barry of Pittsburgh meets Pickles Donahue of Youngstown and Johnny Dunn of New Kensington and Johnny Foster of Cleveland clash in six-round bouts.

Shifty Dando and Joe O'Malley, welterweights, box over the 10-round route at Columbus tonight.

Local amateur heavyweight boxers will vie with representatives of Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Youngstown and Warren, O., in a tournament in Cleveland Moose Hall tonight.

Dave Dunning, 126-pounder of Springdale, is anxious to get bouts at McKeesport and Carnegie. His manager is James Bayens of 250 Center street, Springdale, who may be reached by calling Springdale 44-R.

Billy Armistead, Negro 133-35-pounder of Brushton, who has fought some of the good ones here and in New York, is back in training and anxious to box at any of the clubs. He works out every evening at No. 2 engine house in Wilkinsburg. He also is in the market for a live manager.

Reports from New York today that Pauline Uzcudun will make a delayed start on his cross-country tour with a bout against Pat Lester at Newark, N. J., New Year's afternoon, mean that he will not box here on that day, as originally scheduled. He was to face Battling Levinsky at Motor Square Garden. This match probably will be rebooked for a later date.

BASEBALL

New York last night quite confident that the minors would not go through with their idea of cancelling their draft agreement. Before the sessions ended the majors asked the minors to take time to think it over. A definite decision is expected to be reached by February 1.

The major leaguers in joint conference spent much time in adopting new amendments. For the most part the long drawn-out session had little interest for the public.

Warnings to players on betting were issued by the rulers of the game. Judge Landis appears to be sincere in his desire to keep gambling out of the sport.

Not many important deals were made in the last day of the meetings. The St. Louis Browns continued the tearing up of their team by selling Ken Williams to the Boston Redsox. Williams was considered a homerival of Babe Ruth not so long ago. He is a very dangerous batter and good outfielder, according to A. L. men.

The Boston Braves announced the sale of Pitcher Hughey McQuillan to Newark of the International League. McQuillan is still a good pitcher and many wondered why so many big league clubs waived him out of the circuit.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, announced that he had turned Johnny Butler, third baseman, over to the Cubs, who, in turn, will send Eddie Pick, infielder, and some cash to Milwaukee to reimburse the Brewers for sending Harry Riconda to the Robins.

Outfielder Gus Felix and Infielder Bill Barrett of the Dodgers, were sold to the Buffalo club of the International League in the day's transactions. Felix has many of the marks of a star performer, but he could not stay in a consistent stride.

Bill McKechnie landed Catcher Frank Gibson of the Braves. Bill went somewhat better than the waiver price to get Gibson. Bill apparently wants to be fortified behind the plate. He now owns Bob O'Farrell, Bubber Jonnard and Gibson.

The magnates devoted lots of their time to legislation intended to purify the national pastime and safeguard it against corruption and questionable practices. Penalties were provided for those betting on ball games or offering alleged bonuses to rival players to "bear down" against a third club.

These resolutions were first adopted by the advisory council at French Lick last January and were approved by the majors yesterday. They provide:

(1) Ineligibility for three years for any player offering or accepting any present or reward to stimulate one team to play unusually hard against a third team.

(2) Ineligibility for one year for a player who bets on a game in which he did not take part.

(3) Permanent ineligibility for a player who bets on a game in which he did take part.

EDDIE PHELPS' SON SIGNS CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Pirate fans will be interested in the first professional contract signed yesterday by a youngster who is said to be filled with promise.

The young man is Edward Phelps, Jr. Patrons of Exposition Park will surmise immediately that the youth is the son of Eddie Phelps, who caught for the flag-winning Buccaneers of 20 odd years ago, and the presumption will be correct.

GREENSBURG GENERALS SIGN TWO PLAYERS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.—Harold (Jerry) Ropp of Paulding, O., an outfielder, and Ted Hartle of Van Wert, O., a third baseman, have been signed to play for the 1928 Greensburg Generals in the Pennsylvania League.

Ropp is a brother of Glenn Ropp, pitcher, who left the Generals last fall to join the Brooklyn Robins and who again will be taken south in the spring. Ropp is a right-handed thrower and batter.

Hartle comes highly recommended and supplants Frank Packard, third sacker for the Generals last summer, who went to the Pittsburgh Pirates. He is right-handed also.

YANKEES MAY BUY COAST BALL STARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Reports that Lyn Larry and Jimmy Reese, crack infield pair of the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast League, have been sold "under cover" to the New York Yankees, for future delivery, bobbed up again last night among baseball men.

GENEVA CAGE CARD HEAVY

BEAVER FALLS, Dec. 16.—The Geneva College floor team will open the season at Youngstown tomorrow with the Big Y passers. The contest has been arranged as a pre-season affair for the Covenanters to give Coach McMillin a chance to scout out his squad. AVALON TEAM HOLDS SERVICES FOR VOGEL

Impressive memorial services for Robert Vogel, son of the missing chain store official, who died as a result of injuries suffered on the gridiron, marked the annual banquet given the members of the Avalon High School football team by the players' mothers in the Avalon Presbyterian Church last night.

Coach John B. Sutherland and Buck Templeton of the University of Pittsburgh were the principal speakers. Fourteen lettermen received their awards. Avalon enjoyed one of the most successful seasons in its history, losing only two games. Coach Joseph Wertanik was presented with a gift for his excellent work this year.

WOLGAST BEATS WHITE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Midget Wolgast, South Philadelphia Italian, stepped to the forefront of the state's flyweight ranks today as a result of his whirling victory over Matty White here last night in 10 furious rounds. Wolgast recently defeated Willie Davies, of Charleroi, in the same ring.

NEED MORE BACKS.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 16. — (AP.) — Lack of backfield men for the coast eleven yesterday was worrying promoters of the proposed West-South football game here Christmas Day. Nearly a score of first division linesmen have been decided upon with only a half dozen behind the line to pick from to date.

Mehre to Coach Grid Eleven at Georgia

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Harry Mehre, former Notre Dame football star, yesterday was elected coach at the University of Georgia to succeed George C. Woodruff, who resigned at the opening of the 1927 gridiron season effective at the end of the campaign.

The election of Mehre came as no surprise to university followers as his work as an assistant to Coach Woodruff for the past four years has been outstanding. At Notre Dame he was a star center and he has been one of the principal factors, along with Crowley, another old Rockne star, in introducing the Notre Dame style here.

Will Gold Exports Hurt? Stocks, Perhaps; Trade, No.

By B. C. FORBES

WILL the exporting of gold which has set in hurt this country?

Will the outflow reach half a billion, will it reach a billion, or will it quickly peter out?

MY guess is that shipments to other countries, especially to Europe, will reach a fairly large total—say, half a billion dollars or even considerably more. They have already totaled $180,000,000, including the $74,000,000 "earmarked" for exports.

WE really do not need for banking or business purposes anything like the $4,400,000,000 gold we now hold. Much of it was forced upon us somewhat against the wishes of many of our students of banking and economics.

It was reasoned that the losing of the gold by those who shipped it to us tended to weaken greatly their condition, hurting their currency and reducing their ability to buy goods from us and others. Also, the fear was generally expressed that the overwhelming piling up of gold here would incite flagrant inflation, entailing labor troubles, dangerous stock speculation, disturbance of price levels generally and social dislocation.

The loss of the gold did weaken those who sent it, but, thanks to wonderfully sound judgment and praiseworthy restraint exercised by our banking authorities and others of influence in this country, the feared gross inflation did not arise—unless the speculative advance in many stocks may be regarded by some as a consequence of our unlimited command of credit made possible by our mountain of gold.

SHOULD our exports of the precious metal not reach inordinate volume—not more than three-quarters of a billion, let us say—the net influence should prove helpful rather than harmful to the world as a whole.

The strengthening of foreign currencies, foreign banking, foreign credits, foreign prosperity in general should prove a good thing for the United States. We have become the leading manufacturing and the leading exporting nation. Obviously we need solvent foreign customers, customers able both to use and to pay for billions of dollars' worth of what we have to sell.

If we can greatly improve the demand for our products by parting with some of the gold which we do not really need for banking or business purposes, surely we stand to gain rather than lose anything.

LAST year $1,606,000,000 capital was raised here for foreign borrowers and this year's total will approximate $1,200,000,000.

Dr. W. Randolph Burgess, assistant federal reserve agent at New York, declares that there remains "A billion dollars and more of foreign balances in this country which have a direct claim upon our gold reserve." It has become evident that quite a number of these foreign borrowers desire to have a part of the proceeds of these loans remitted to them in the form of gold.

Lately we have shipped gold to England, Holland, Japan, Poland, India, Canada, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Java and Straits Settlements.

That this movement will continue is taken for granted.

NOW, what is likely to be the effect here?

It is argued that, since the tremendous inflow of gold did not cause abnormal inflation, the reshipment of part of it should not cause any deflation.

That sounds absolutely plausible. My humble opinion is that gold exports will have little or no effect here in any direction except in the market.

I do think, however, that a continuance of gold exports in any considerable quantity would tend to stiffen money rates in Wall street, although probably only in a moderate degree. But even a moderate advance in money rates would, in my judgment, have a distinctly sobering effect upon the daring operations of the powerful speculators who have been so spectacularly active in the stock market, and which brought about expansion in brokers' loans to the tune of a billion dollars.

But a return of less sensational exploits in the stock market would be a light price to pay for the beneficial effects likely to flow from a better distribution of the world's stock of gold. In fact, a quietening down of stock speculation is viewed in the highest circles as desirable from every point of view.

STEEL, MOTORS RESUME LEAD FOR RISE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Return of United States Steel common and General Motors to the leadership of the market featured the resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market. Steel was bid up more than 3 points to 145¾, the highest prices since the first week of October, by early afternoon, and General Motors recorded a similar gain by touching 133, blocks of 1,000 to 12,000 shares changing hands in these two issues.

The optimistic tener of the annual business forecasts now making their appearance and the abundance of money at relatively easy rates were important factors in the "bull" movement which embraced a wide variety of stocks.

Flurries of profittaking and bear selling swept through the market at intervals, but they failed to cause more than a ripple of excitement. Wright Aeronautical, which has enjoyed a sensational advance in the last few weeks, broke six points and a number of others yielded a point or more.

Coppers gave another impressive demonstration of strength under the leadership of Green Cananea, which was bid up over five points. International Harvester, Sloss Sheffield Steel, F. G. Shattuck, Arnold Constable and a few others sold four to seven points higher.

Trading was in tremendous volume, total sales in the first three hours running close to 2,000,000 shares, with indications that the sales for the full session would cross the 2,000,000 mark.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad was finally valued by the Interstate Commerce Commission at $566,179,434 as of June 30, 1917. The value includes $11,198,000 for working capital.

Better Glass Business Foreseen.

The American Glass Review tomorrow will say: "The demand for window glass during the week, as was to be expected, was not especially animated, although production schedules were being well maintained with no changes in plant schedules reported. Following completion of inventories now soon to hold the center of the stage, some increase in the volume of new business is anticipated, however. In the plate glass field the situation held virtually unchanged during the week. A change for the better in the market for this product is confidently looked for in the not far distant future, however."

A strip mill to cost between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 will be erected at the Ohio works of the Wheeling Steel Corporation. It is understood that it will be a wide strip mill capable of rolling strips in widths to compete with sheets.

The company is expected to do some public financing shortly through its bankers, Taylor Ewart & Co. and Wetsch, Heinzelmann & Co.

Sheaffer Penn Skyrockets.

Sheaffer Fountain Penn, a newly listed issue on the New York Curb, furnished a sensation in that market today when it ran up more than $50 a share to a level about 200 points above the price at which it first appeared a few days ago. The company's product has an enviable position in the trade and the comparatively small share capital is reported to be closely held.

Lee Tire and Rubber.

General Motors Shorts Squeezed.

Shorts in General Motors were caught napping this morning and the stock was pushed up sharply as the street exhibited its satisfaction over the decrease in brokers' loans, the first for some time. Bears have put up a stubborn fight in General Motors, but its last dip was to around 125 where it met the same remarkable support noted on three previous occasions when it got down into that territory. As a result of the series of drives on the stock, an extensive short interest is now outstanding. Reports were current of the formation of a new pool by Wilmington interests for the purpose of running in the shorts. Incidentally, it was pointed out that a bull demonstration in General Motors would be good advertising for the new Chevrolet models to be offered early next year.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 1 to 9 points. Buying on relatively steady Liverpool cables, was supplanted by realizing, while there also was some selling attributed to a renewal of old long liquidation brought out by the advance of the past two days.

A moderate volume of southern selling also was reported and prices worked off to 18.57 for January and 18.90 for May before the end of the first hour, or about 10 to 12 points net lower.

Private cables reported trade calling with American and continental buying in Liverpool and that demand for cotton cloths from India was well sustained, but yarns were pressed for sale.

The market turned firmer after the absorption of the early offerings, January selling up from 18.54c to 18.75c on a renewal of covering, combined with a moderate trade demand and some local buying. Prices were around the best at mid-day, with the market steady at net advance of 3 to 7 points. It was reported that a Memphis authority estimated the ginnings prior to December 13 at 12,150,000 bales.

Window Glass Drops To New Bottom

There were no conspicuous changes in the price list on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange during the first half of today's session, and business was in light volume. Scattered transactions in various miscellaneous manufacturing issues comprised the bulk of the dealings. Carnegie Metals was in demand again and lifted its 1927 top a fraction.

The recession which carried Standard Sanitary down more than three points just before the close Thursday apparently was a minor incident, as only a few shares came out on that movement and today's early range on the stock was in the upward direction. The reaction Thursday was attributed more to absence of bids than to any development bearing on the company or the value of the shares.

American Window Glass Company preferred found a thin demand when a few shares were offered and the result was a drop to a new low of 85. The 1927 showing of the glass companies will be very poor, but trade reports recently have indicated that while conditions have not shown any improvement this month, they are, at least, not any worse, and hopes are that the next turn in the situation will be for the better.

The company has agreed to make application to list this issue of preferred stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. Nicholas M. Schenck, President of Loew's Incorporated, from his letter dated December 15, 1927, copies of which may be obtained upon request, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS

Loew's Incorporated, a holding company, is one of the largest and most prominent factors in each of the three divisions of the motion picture industry—namely, production, distribution and exhibition. The company has shown substantial net profits in each year since organization in 1919, and is the outgrowth of amusement enterprises which have been successfully operated since 1905.

Through subsidiary and affiliated companies, Loew's Incorporated owns, leases or directs a chain of 115 theaters in the United States and Canada not including 8 theaters now under construction in this country. Many of these theaters are the largest and most favorably located in their respective cities. This is in keeping with the company's policy of theater operation, which has been to construct or acquire theaters of large seating capacity centrally located in the principal cities of the United States. Foreign operations include the control of theaters in various European capitals, and the distribution of films throughout the world. The number of cash admissions to the company's chain of theaters during the fiscal year ended August 31, 1927, was over 100,000,000.

Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary company, ranks as one of the world's leading motion picture producing companies and has built up a high reputation for the popularity and artistry of its productions. It has been its policy to produce a limited number of feature pictures in each year, employing the best stars and directors obtainable. Film costs have been written off at a rate which absorbs 87% of the cost of each film in one year from the date of general release. Among its recent outstanding pictures, known to the public as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions, have been "The Big Parade", "Ben Hur", "Student Prince", "Quality Street" and "Garden of Allah".

EARNINGS

Consolidated results of operation of Loew's Incorporated and its wholly-owned subsidiary companies, including dividends received from affiliated companies, for the six fiscal years ended August 31, 1927, have been certified by Messrs. Philip N. Miller and Company, certified public accountants, who have regularly audited the accounts of the company since its organization, as follows:

Fiscal years ended August 31	Earnings before interest, after depreciation and Federal income taxes as accrued	Interest on subsidiaries' debt	Dividends on subsidiaries' preferred stock	Interest on debt of Loew's Incorporated	Consolidated net earnings after all charges
1922	$2,585,001	$339,680	$	$10,000	$2,235,321
1923	2,868,461	456,225	.....	12,998	2,399,238
1924	3,535,338	530,914	78,174	47,897	2,878,353
1925	5,762,072	654,886	310,186	88,369	4,708,631

1927	8,363,504	732,983	333,220	560,096	6,737,205

Consolidated net earnings of $6,737,205 for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1927, as shown above, were 6.9 times the maximum annual dividend requirement of $975,000 on this issue, and for the six-year period shown averaged over 4 times such dividend requirement.

Consolidated net earnings for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1927, as shown above, without allowing for dividends on this issue of preferred stock and giving no effect to benefits from the additional capital obtained through this financing, were equal to $6.35 a share on the common stock now outstanding.

COMMON STOCK

Based on current quotations on the New York Stock Exchange, the indicated market value of the company's common stock, of which 1,060,910 shares* are now outstanding, is approximately $60,000,000.

Quarterly dividends have been paid on the company's common stock at the rate of $2 a share per annum since December 30, 1923. Extra dividends of $1 a share were declared on the common stock in 1926 and in 1927.

*In addition to shares of common stock now outstanding, 104,875 shares are now reserved for purchase under outstanding stock purchase warrants, on or before April 1, 1931, at $55 a share, and 90,000 shares are to be reserved against stock purchase warrants, for purchase at the prices indicated above, to be issued in connection with this financing. The present capital stock of the company is referred to above as common stock.

A. W. Robertson, Esq., President of Duquesne Light Company, summarizes his letter, dated December 14, 1927, as follows:

BUSINESS

Duquesne Light Company does all the electric light and power business in the City of Pittsburgh. It also supplies substantially all the electric light and power service in the surrounding boroughs and in the greater parts of Allegheny and Beaver Counties, Pennsylvania. The territory served is one of the greatest and most highly developed industrial sections in the world. It has a population of over 1,360,000 and an area of approximately 1,000 square miles. The business of the Company has shown a steady growth since its inception. Since 1909 gross operating revenues in each year have increased over those of the preceding year. For the 12 months ended October 31, 1927, sales of electricity amounted to 1,158,838,756 kilowatt hours and gross operating revenues to $25,536,449. Net earnings have more than doubled since 1919. During the same period the number of customers, kilowatt hour sales and gross operating revenues have also more than doubled, while the average cost of electricity to customers has decreased.

PROPERTIES

Properties include two steam power plants of an aggregate installed capacity of 336,500 kilowatts, 221 substations and 5,983 circuit miles of transmission and distribution lines, as well as other supplemental properties and appurtenances essential to the efficient operation of a modern electric utility system. The generating stations are Colfax, with an installed capacity of 220,000 kilowatts, and Brunot Island, of 116,500 kilowatts capacity. An additional generating unit at Colfax of 40,000 kilowatts capacity is practically completed. The plants are interconnected by an 81-mile steel tower high tension transmission ring serving the Pittsburgh district.

ASSETS

The Company's Balance Sheet as of October 31, 1927, giving effect to present financing, after deducting all obligations, including $65,000,000 First Mortgage 4½% Gold Bonds, due April 1, 1967, constituting the only funded indebtedness of the Company, shows net tangible assets of more than $320 per share of this First Preferred Stock which will be the only First Preferred Stock presently outstanding. Securities will be outstanding representing stocks junior to the First Preferred Stock of a par value of $50,000,000.

EARNINGS

Net income (after deducting all charges including interest and depreciation) available for the payment of dividends, for the 12 months ended October 31, 1927, was 8.84 times the annual dividend requirement on the total amount of First Preferred Stock presently to be outstanding. Such net income for the four years and ten months ended October 31, 1927 averaged annually over 6.61 times this requirement. For the 12 months ended October 31, 1927, after deducting all charges including depreciation, net earnings available for interest were 2.9 times the aggregate of annual interest charges on present funded indebtedness and annual dividend requirement on this First Preferred Stock. The following statement of earnings and other statistics indicates the substantial growth of the Company's business and the large margin of earnings over the First Preferred dividend requirement:

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA. IN RE PETITION FOR SALE OF REAL ESTATE OF THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF INDUSTRY. NO. 3848, JANUARY TERM, 1928.

Notice is hereby given that the petition of William E. Franklin, P. E. Kohler and H. M. Kilgore, respectfully represents: That they are the committee duly appointed by Redstone Presbytery, a corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to take charge and make sale of the real estate of the First Presbyterian Church of Industry, Beaver township, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania. See minutes of the Presbytery hereto attached, made part hereof and marked Exhibit "A." That there are no trustees or other officers of said First Presbyterian Church of Industry and said organization has become inactive and extinct by reason of there being no resident or active trustees representing it, and all the members of said congregation having gone away or having been dismissed to other churches, and there being no one to make title to said real estate to a purchaser thereof, and for the past seven years said church building has ceased to be used for church purposes, and the same has become wasted and destroyed and has valueless every year. Said church property consists of a lot or plots of ground situate in Ellisbeth Township, Allegheny County, Pa., fronting 50.60 feet on a Public road in the village of Industry and extending back sixty-five feet to property of William S. Miller and wife, and having thereon erected a frame church building. See blueprint hereto Exhibit "B." The First Presbyterian Church was organized in 1865, and acquired title to lot above described by deed from William S. Miller and wife, dated April 28, 1865, and recorded June 4, 1894, in Deed Book, volume 874, page 502. Title being taken in the name "Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church of Industry, Elisabeth Township, Allegheny County, Pa." A frame church building was erected upon said lot by said congregation, secured financially by the Board of Church Erection of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, which holds a mortgage of Nine Hundred ($900.00) Dollars against the same, recorded in Mortgage Book, volume 608, page 316. Church services were held in said church from the time of its completion until 1920; the services being conducted by the pastor of the Sutersville Presbyterian Church, a neighboring church in the Presbytery of Redstone. In 1920 the congregation had gradually disappeared through removals and dismissals to other churches until only two active members remained, viz.: Miss Frances L. Howell and Martha J. Howell. In 1920 the matter was called to the attention of Redstone Presbytery, it having jurisdiction over the First Presbyterian Church of Industry, and at a meeting of said Presbytery held at Mt. Pleasant, April 5, 1923, your committee was duly appointed. See copy of minutes hereto annexed, made part hereof and marked Exhibit "A." In pursuance of said appointment, your committee took charge of said property, and granted letters of dismissal to the Misses Howell to unite with the Mount Vernon Presbyterian Church, and to three other members residing in San Paulo, California. Said committee entered into an agreement to sell said church property to the "Pride of the Valley Lodge No. 1058, I. O. O. F., of Industry," for the price or sum of Fifteen Hundred ($1,500.00) Dollars, a copy of said agreement is hereto attached, made a part hereof and marked Exhibit "C." That said sum is a fair, marketable price for the same, and a higher and a better price than could be obtained at a public sale, and the sale may be made without injury, or prejudice to any trust, charity or purpose for which the same is held and without violation of any law which might confer any immunity or exemption from sale or alienation. In pursuance of said sale agreement, a survey was made by R. C. Bayne, a civil engineer, who found the N. W. corner of said church building extending over the line and into the property of William S. Miller and wife, as shown, by the blue print marked Exhibit "B." This necessitated the purchase of a triangular piece of ground in order to satisfy the purchaser, and by deed dated July 11, 1927, and to be recorded, said Williams S. Miller, et ux., granted and conveyed said triangular piece to the Trustees of Redstone Presbytery.

All of the foregoing recited actions of your committee have been taken under the authority of Redstone Presbytery, the superior judicatory with which the aforesaid First Presbyterian Church was affiliated, and the proper authority for that purpose, as provided for under the Act of Assembly, approved May 17, 1921, P. L. 861. Your petitioners therefore showing to your Honorable Court that Redstone Presbytery is the proper authority to dispose of said real estate, it having the power under its Charter (inter alia) "to acquire and take by gift, grant, devise or otherwise howsoever, and to hold real estate and personal property of any and every kind to an amount not exceeding that limited by law; and to sell, transfer and convey the same, by its proper officers; to use and apply its funds from time to time as the said Presbytery shall direct, to erect and maintain houses of worship and such other buildings, as in the judgment of Presbytery shall be necessary for carrying on its work; no real estate shall be conveyed or encumbered, unless by resolution of said Presbytery regularly passed, authorizing the Trustees and officers so to do." Such resolution was passed at Bells Vernon, Pa., September 22, 1924. See minutes of Pres. Vol. 13, page 485, and Exhibit "A" of this petition. And your petitioners further showing that neither congregation nor Trustees of said First Presbyterian Church of Industry are in existence, and that the organization has become inactive and extinct, and the property liable to be wasted and destroyed, pray your Honorable Court to appoint the Trustees of Redstone Presbytery, to make, execute and deliver unto the Pride of the Valley Lodge No. 1058, I. O. O. F., of Industry, a good and sufficient deed for the real estate shown in blue print marked Exhibit "B" and they will ever pray.

WILLIAM E. FRANKLIN,
PHAON H. KOHLER,
HARRY M. KILGORE,

ORDER OF COURT.

And now, to-wit: December 7th, 1927, the within petition presented in open court, and upon consideration thereof it appearing to the Court that the facts set forth in said petition are true and correct, on motion of Thomas E. Finley, attorney for petitioners, a rule is granted to show cause why said First Presbyterian Church property should not be sold to the Pride of the Valley Lodge No. 1058, I. O. O. F., of Industry, Pennsylvania, by the Trustees of Redstone Presbytery, as prayed for. Said rule returnable to and hearing fixed for the 16th day of January, 1928, at 9:30 a. m. Notice to be published once a week for four successive weeks in Pittsburgh Legal Journal and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

BY THE COURT,

BUGS BAER Says

WHEN Dempsey whipped Jack Sharkey by punching him in the jaw everybody thought Jack was on his way back to the championship.

Dempsey thought so himself. He gave his gloves and his fighting trunks to Bill Le Hiff, who refused them and hung them up in his restaurant with this inscription, "These are the gloves which Dempsey wore in his come-back."

After the Chicago fight with Tunney, Bill had to take the gloves down off the wall.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Considering the long count we always thought Tunney should give Le Hiff the bath-robe and the stop-watch he made his come-back with.

It was a pretty short left duke that brought Tunney low. La Hiff isn't up much on royalty; but he knows enough about titles to realize that a long count is better than a short duke.

Bombardier Wells, who discovered that the floor was man's closest friend, used to give away autographed pieces of comfortable canvas to his friends.

It kept the Bombardier busy getting enough fights to supply the demand. Old Sam Langford had the best idea of distributing souvenirs. He always was very liberal with the other guy's teeth.

ON "LOVE-BEGGARS"

Some women seem to ACT like
Beggars on the HIGHWAY of Life. When it comes to LOVE, they appear to be in Very reduced circumstances.
And the HEARTS of these women
Seem veritable POOR-HOUSES.
They, themselves, are Forever EXPECTING donations,
Yet remain as COLD as an
Iceberg. Constantly they appeal
For ALMS, yet so GAUNT are
Their gestures or unenticing
Their pleas, that people in PASSING, drop trifles out of PITY, but they never want to Cultivate them.
WOMEN who WANT love must Look LOVELY, or BE loving.
Enough of EITHER will make Them LOVABLE. Enough of Both—ADORABLE.
MEN do not want DRAB
Women, particularly in these Days of poster-advertising.
And WOMEN who are just SORRY for themselves
Will need all the SELF-PITY
They can MUSTER for the Future, for the SYMPATHY
OF OTHERS is retained
For the BRAVE.

It's Wise, Prudent, Safe To Keep Respectable Navy

President Coolidge is to be congratulated on his approval of a building program to round out our Navy and perfect our national defense.

President Coolidge patiently waited until the disappearance of all hope to get the chief naval powers to cut their cruiser and submarine tonnage down to our level. Having failed, he wisely determined to build our tonnage up to their level.

The President of the United States could not conscientiously expose the country to the risk of longer delay.

By itself the expenditure of eight hundred million dollars for naval construction in five to nine years seems like a large sum. Upon analysis the sum does not seem so large.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in his annual report, tells us that the World War cost us fifty-eight million dollars for every day we were in the conflict.

At that rate, seventeen DAYS of war would cost the country as much as the billion dollars now to be expended in five to eleven YEARS in order to prevent war.

The President and Congress have seen through the fog of propaganda, generated abroad and stupidly spread by some of our own internationalists, alleging that the United States does not need naval protection as much as England does.

Each of the two countries has such a heavy stake in international commerce that it cannot afford to have that commerce interrupted by war.

Our only conceivable danger of war in the future will be with some great power across the Atlantic or the Pacific. The contest will be decided on the sea.

The fleet of the stronger of these two powers will defeat the [fleet] of the weaker, or chase it into hiding. The dominant [power] will then use its cruisers and armed merchantmen to [destroy] commerce of the weaker contestant off the seas.

Great Britain is determined to guard against this contingency at any cost, for it would mean defeat and ruin for her. No less it would mean defeat and ruin for us.

We should see the loss of foreign markets that now take five thousand million dollars of our goods every year. The laborers who make or produce these goods would be unemployed, likewise those who manufacture or distribute imported commodities amounting to over four thousand million dollars a year.

Closing the seas would cut us off from the buyers of more than a third of each of the following American products: Wheat, lard, leaf tobacco, turpentine, copper, cotton and rye.

A foreign power controlling the seas could likewise obliterate our coastwise traffic, including the 4,000-mile route from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast through the Panama Canal.

The only wise, prudent and safe thing to do is being done—to put ourselves in the same "respectable posture of defense" that England has provided herself with. Weakness would not prevent war but invite it, and threaten defeat if war came.

Foes of Direct Primaries Massing for an Attack

Undismayed by their rebuff in Maine, opponents of the direct primary are now massing to attack it in Massachusetts.

A joint legislative committee has summarized the arguments against it,:

That it has led to a system of blocs, personal machines and demagoguery; that less than a third of the registered voters use it; that it prevents the drafting of superior men, and that it deprives the party organization of responsibility for party nominations.

All of which is measurably true—especially the curtailment of the bosses' power to rig tickets so that the common citizen would lose, no matter which ticket won.

But there were blocs, personal machines, demagoguery and even lighter primary voting under the old system. Its evils were as bad as those charged against the new and it had some which the new lacks.

Curiously, the opponents of popular nominations in Massachusetts do not show the full courage of their convictions. They do not purpose to repeal the direct primary utterly. Maine has taught them caution.

Instead, they suggest that the Governor still be nominated directly, but that four minor State officers be nominated in convention.

Their strategy evidently is to accustom the people to harmless conventions, hoping later to restore the boss system intact.

Massachusetts is an intelligent State. Its citizens are used to self-government. They not only nominate their candidates directly, but have also the initiative and referendum, by which they can determine their own policies and their own laws.

This effort of the bosses to inch back into power will be a test of the people's vigilance.

Good Pay for Good Work

The value to industry as well as to society of good wages for good work, of steady employment and of harmonized relations between those who work and those who hire, is not a new truth.

Mr. Hearst, among others, perceived and began to practice it many years ago.

Charles M. Schwab is, however, quite accurate in pointing to its widened recent acceptance as a main reason why the economic welfare of our country is the wonder of the world.

He is equally right in saying that for the future of American industry the branch of engineering which is to call for the highest intelligence is that which has to do not with machinery so much as with men and women.

Our ability to produce wealth has been proved. Our ability to make its distribution ever progressive toward a higher average welfare is the challenge which our captains of business face.

It is a most stimulating invitation. It explains why more and more the best ability among our people seeks in business not wealth merely but ways to the finest service.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army [illegible] the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says:

To the Discouraged

BELIEVE IN LIFE!

Yes, I know you're tired and discouraged. I can hear you cry—"Everything has gone wrong. I'm a failure. How can I believe in Life when I can't even believe in myself?"

That's all right. Stop trying to believe in yourself. Forget yourself a little while. Look outside yourself. Look at Life. Believe in Life!

Believe in Life as you did when you were a child and seemed to be standing tip-toe on the edge of all its secrets. Remember that tremendous feeling that Something Was About to Happen? Remember that fluttering wonder that used to steal over you as you lay in the grass, looking up through the grass stalks at the enormous sky? How you seemed to float out of yourself up and up—and UP—into the Mystery!

Float out of yourself now! The mystery is still there, just as it used to be—the wonders and adventures are there, only you have forgotten to look for them. You have forgotten to BELIEVE in them and EXPECT them. Turn to them again, my dear. Turn away from yourself and your little failures and look at Life.

Look at that cement sidewalk outside your window. You walk on that cement every day, lagging, discouraged. It means nothing to you. It should mean something. It should mean new life every time you step on it. That sidewalk is not built of common earth and water. It is built of dreams and faith, courage and patience and perseverance.

Don't look at the outside of that walk—at the weary feet that shuffle along it, at the filth that lies upon it. Look at the INSIDE of that pavement—at the reality. Think of what happened in men's minds and hearts and lives before the snake-infested, murder-haunted jungle trial cleared and straightened itself into that safe highway? Think how that pavement ties up with everything else in our lives—with all we have, with all we hope—

Can't you see it now with different eyes? Can't you see that it isn't a pavement at all—it is A RECORD OF ENERGY. It is a bond that ties you and all other men with the Eternal Source of all energy. It is a miracle—that same miracle you felt hovering about you when you were a little child, whispering into your listening ear, brushing your eager lips—

Look at that frying pan in the sink—that electric light over your desk—that radio waiting for you to turn the dial—think of the thought and struggle that have gone into the making of these things—the faith and fury and love and delight—Think of the countless men and women who have contributed to their creation. Those men and women were often tired and discouraged, as you are. They were limited, as you are. They, too, failed. Nevertheless, mysteries worked through them, marvels came out of them, they were part of a deathless wonder.

YOU, TOO, ARE PART OF THAT DEATHLESS WONDER. YOU, TOO, ARE PART OF THE VAST QUIVERING, THROBBING, SURGING MIRACLE OF CREATION.

What if you have failed, one or a thousand times? The miracle still goes on and you are a part of it. Stop looking back, stop looking in—LOOK OUT—LOOK AHEAD!

BELIEVE AGAIN! BELIEVE IN LIFE! BELIEVE IN YOURSELF, FOR YOU ARE PART OF LIFE!

Garrett P Serviss Says:

The Gravitation Mystery

"How did astronomers explain the movements of the planets around the sun and the moons around the planets before Isaac Newton discovered gravitation; especially since the system of Copernicus was accepted?—L. K."

THEY hardly improve upon Copernicus' own notion that "matter is distributed into whole bodies and that each of these wholes moves naturally in a circle or combination of circles, but that when any one whole body is separated into parts which are then left free to move, all the parts rush together in straight lines. Hence the earth with all it contains, and each of the planets, revolve in circles or combinations of circles, but any body such as a stone lifted off the earth's surface and then left free will rush in a straight line towards the center of the earth." (E. J. C. Morton's abstract).

Gilbert, famous for his experiments with magnets in the sixteenth century, thought there was something resembling magnetic attraction which enabled the earth to drag the moon along with it in its journey around the sun. But the earth's own revolution around the sun he could not thus explain.

Kepler, the original discoverer of the forms of the planets' orbits, tried to account for their revolution around the sun by supposing something resembling spokes to connect the sun with the planets, which were thus swept around by the sun's own rotation. But he could not develope this into a satisfactory explanation. Kepler was alive with imagination, and among his fancies was the notion that the moon was endowed with something like an "animal force" which enabled it to keep itself from falling upon the earth, around which it traveled, and toward which it was drawn by some attractive force, similar to that suggested by Gilbert. This imaginary "animal force" recalls the other old fancy, that the planets were pushed around in their orbits by angels or demons assigned to that duty.

The great obstacle to explanation was the inherent distaste of the human mind to the idea of "action at a distance," i. e. of any force acting from one body to another without some material connection between them. This is a result of our constitution, since we are by our nature unable to comprehend anything that does not in some manner affect our physical senses. Newton himself gave up trying to account for the force acting between all particles of matter, whose existence he was compelled to assume as a basis for his law of gravitation.

Having made his assumption of the existence of such a force his mathematics then had plain sailing, and he was able to prove that the revolution of the planets and satellites was maintained solely by an attraction continually directed toward the center, if the orbit was circular, and toward the focus occupied by the attracting body if the orbit was elliptical.

As to the ultimate nature of that force he offered no suggestion, so that it can not be said that the movement of the planets is, philosophically, any better explained since Newton than it was before Newton. He furnished a satisfactory mathematical explanation that enables us to predict the motions of the planets in the future as well as to trace them in the past; but which tells us nothing of the inherent nature, or cause, of the force assumed to be in action.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Jolt Yourself

MAYBE you need to be stirred up a bit.

Perhaps you have been going along so smoothly for so long that you have ceased to make more than a perfunctory effort in your daily work.

A severe jolt would do you good.

It is easy to get in a rut, easier to stay there.

If you would go over yourself honestly and looked in an unbiased way at your efforts each day you might realize that you are not doing your best.

For some time you may go your own gait, but sooner or later you are told about it and you don't like the telling.

Why not diagnose your own case, inject pep without being told, and whatever else you lack for best kind of performance.

Surely you know what you should do.

Is your conscience clear every night as to your day's work?

If it isn't you are not up to required standard.

You are missing the good feeling of satisfaction you should experience.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Tomorrow

TOMORROW is no day of mystery
By kindly gods or cruel devils sent;
Tomorrow is the sum of you and me
Where all the past days of our lives are blent.

It is the good you did a year ago,
It is the evil that you thought last week,
It is each noble impulse that you know
And all the lofty loveliness you seek.

There is no god who holds the days in store
To color them according to his whim;
The morrow's dawn you tinted long before
Its light crept up beyond the earth's far rim.

Tomorrow—men have praised it overmuch
Because it is the bird no hand can touch!

Ye Towne Gossip

By K. C. B.

DEAR MR. K. C. B.: I am a sophomore in high school. When the work is easy I get it all right. I even get the hard work too, but when I have too much of it I feel like "laying down on the job" and just working enough to get through by the skin of my teeth. Can you help me? S. J. B.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Thoughts while strolling: Those men who stand in Fifth avenue doorways checking off buses. Elizabeth Hines. Flappers talking the Moran and Mack lingo. What's become of ginger snaps? A drug store with a balcony restaurant.

Masseur parlor: "Try our dry soda rub." Shop selling "sea skiffs." A girl wearing a furred evening wrap over a riding costume. "Sinker" and coffee shops with gold curtains and carved furniture. Chauffeurs scuffling to keep warm. Samuel Hoffenstein, the poetical press agent for Al Woods.

The bleak office building where the roccoco Vanderbilt mansion once stood. That fresh feel after a sudden rain. The girl who used to do those undulating dances, billed as a "Princess," now running a beauty parlor. A hotel flying Belgian flags and a dazzling green carpet laid across the sidewalk.

Sign: "Brunch"—the new combination breakfast lunch. A girl with eloquent eyes at a tea room window—waiting. Those shrewd and impudent "kids" around theaters—the producers of tomorrow. Pie counters. Dollar hats. Rhinestone dresses. Draft near beer.

Gray, blinking old men with veined hands—carrying the banner. And those silver-haired Broadwayites you often discover are pool room managers or night cashiers. An ambulance backs up to an ice skating rink. "Daddy" Browning's cherry red limousine.

A burlesque comic who wears black string ties and looks like an undertaker. That is the popular idea of an undertaker. But they don't dress that way anymore—at least around New York. The speakeasy tip-off—curtained windows so you cannot see in from the street.

Karl Bickel. Monocle wearers from What Cheer, Iowa. And spat wearers from Plattsburg, Mo. Hale Byers, the half pint orchestra leader, who spends off hours reading the classics. Martha Milchinski, Roxy's press agent.

There is nothing quite so earnest as a vaudevillian discussing the merits of his act. He soars on the wings of superlatives. He can knock 'em stiff in their seats or lay 'em out in the aisles wherever he appears. And yet off stage and among strangers he is almost invariably so much of a shrinking violet that you never imagine he is of the stage.

This morning I met a vaudeville actor who has been opening and closing shows for years with the same mediocre routine. He rehearsed a bit of new business he was planning to inject into the act. "It means top billing for me at last," he enthused with that futile optimism that brings a lump in the throat.

* * *

The high cost of silk stockings no longer worries musical show producers. Hosiery is today as useless as a postoffice pen. The girls go bare legged.

Robert Benchley was called in to inject a few red corpuscles in a musical show and Alexander Woollcott observed he could see nothing of the Benchley relationship unless a few ladies in the chorus happened to be his aunts.

Divorce

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Judge Ben Lindsey calls attention to the fact that in most countries an action of divorce is deficient if there is collusion between the two parties.

In other words, if a man and his wife both see that further continuance of their marriage relation is impossible, the judge will not grant them a divorce.

One must make charges and the other defend them.

The question arises, why if there can be marriage only by mutual consent and willingness, does not the same mutual consent secure divorce? Why must there be a contest over the matter?

On all sides it is recognized that divorce is a sort of calamity, a breaking down of the marriage institution. But if this calamity occurs why should not both parties be allowed to recognize it, admit it, and secure the divorce amicably and not have a contest?

A case at law in English-speaking countries is a curious affair. It does not seem to be an inquiry as to the facts. Lawyers are hired on both sides and the judge is the umpire, just as a man would be at a cock fight.

Judge Lindsey is in favor of a court taking cognizance of the facts alleged by both parties and arranging the matter himself, without the contest of attorneys.

There are those who think that this would be the better way. If the marriage contract is to be dissolved, should it not be done by a fair and impartial tribunal after a clear statement of the facts, without having the case wrangled over and besmirched by sensational charges?
